

Happy Event---Spring Fever Time Is Here

It's here at last. Spring arrived officially this afternoon at 2:08. The past few days of climbing temperatures and clear skies have produced signs in keeping with the season including a touch of spring fever. Sunny daffodils and budding pussy willows attest to the welcome spring rebirth. On the Hudson River, the few remaining vestiges of winter float out to open water past shore cottages which will soon be the scene of warm weather fun. Thoughts turn to the out-of-doors as the world turns toward the sun in its yearly vernal equinox. The seed catalogues which made such good winter reading when the snows blanketed garden beds must now be turned into reality. Robin sightings are reported daily and the winter birds are making like its nesting time, gathering fluff and string on their twittering rounds. There are some pessimists who say it is too early to think such warm thoughts about spring but the calendar makes it official and the living things of nature are reacting rightly to their own time clocks. If March holds to the tradition of lamb-like exit after a lion-type entrance then this year should hold to spring for the rest of the month. The month came in with one of the worst storms of winter, dropping 15 inches of snow in Kingston. Now the precipitation hopefully will be of the April shower variety—the kind that makes for May flowers. (Freeman photos by Haines)

10,000 GIs Die Since Talks Start

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that 351 Americans were killed in action in Vietnam last week, pushing the total of U.S. battlefield dead to 10,112 in the 10 months since the Paris peace talks began and to 33,063 in more than eight years of war.

The American toll last week was 15 more than the previous week's total and raised the number of Americans killed in the first three weeks of the Viet Cong's spring offensive to 1,140, only 240 less than the 1,380 U.S. troops reported killed during the eight weeks of 1969 prior to the offensive.

Meanwhile, at the opening of the ninth session of the Paris peace talks today the Viet Cong charged that President Nixon's threat of an "appropriate response" to the current Cong offensive is a threat to escalate the war.

Tran Buu Kiem of the National Liberation Front, claimed sweeping victories for the Viet Cong in its offensive and said the United States "must bear full responsibility for the waste of GI's lives."

"The Nixon administration dare not face the hard facts and draw a conclusion therefrom," said Kiem. "It still nurtures the hope of retrieving the situation by new military means and further threatens the Vietnamese people with 'appropriate response.' In other words, this is a threat of escalating the aggressive war."

Defends Offensive

Defending the offensive, now in its third week, Kiem said the attacks had been undertaken to "mete out punishment to the invaders and traitors" in response to "terrorist and sweep operations against the South Vietnamese people."

Scoffing at Nixon's March 4

statement that appropriate action would be taken if the level of U.S. casualties became intolerable, Kiem said the Viet Cong attacks had been directed "against the very military bases illegally set up on the soil of South Vietnam" from which the Americans were attacking.

If the current casualty rate continues the total of American dead in the Vietnam war will exceed the Korean war toll of 33,629 by the end of this month. More Americans then will have been killed in Vietnam than in any other war in U.S. history except the Civil War and the two world wars.

The U.S. Command said 1,401 Americans were wounded last week, compared with 1,694 the week before.

Reds Pay Heavier Price

South Vietnamese casualties were 325 killed and 1,156 wounded, up from 259 and 1,058 the previous week, the government said. Despite the mounting allied casualties, the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were paying a far heavier price for their offensive.

U.S. headquarters said 4,137 of the enemy were killed last week, bringing the total enemy dead to at least 119,100 since the Paris talks began last May and to at least 465,479 since the United States entered the war on Jan. 1, 1961.

The enemy toll for the first three weeks of the offensive is 15,099 dead according to allied figures.

No End in Sight

As the enemy's offensive rolled into its 26th day with no end in sight, U.S. headquarters reported about 30 rocket and mortar attacks on allied bases and towns Wednesday night. For the second night, the chief target was Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city and a major military base.

U.S. spokesmen said more than 20 rounds of 100-pound rockets and mortars hit two buildings at the U.S. Navy's Camp Tien Sha, a Navy cargo loading pier, a Seabee base, a Navy hospital and a Marine air base.

Two rounds missed Camp Tien Sha and landed in a nearby village, killing two Vietnamese civilians and wounding six others.

Spokesmen said military casualties and damage were light, with about half a dozen Americans wounded but none killed. One mortar round did light damage to a ward in the hospital, but no casualties were reported there.

The rockets that hit Da Nang Tuesday night killed 14 civilians and wounded 24.

Garraghan Plays It Typical On the Dem Choice for Mayor

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON Local Democrats joyfully announced today that Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan was "enthusiastic" about a proposed ticket of Francis R. Koenig for mayor and T. Robert Gallo for alderman-at-large and that Garraghan had gone as far as to say that he would nominate Koenig at the party's convention on March 26.

This came after the mayor told The Freeman that he had "heard the rumors" of a Koenig-Gallo ticket and that he would have to "check with Democratic committeemen" on the possibility of that ticket. Garraghan offered no comment to The Freeman on the possible chances of the ticket, allowing only that he would have to check it out.

Sharp Contrast

Garraghan's vague statements on the Koenig-Gallo ticket were in sharp contrast to statements made within a half hour to another member of the news media in which he termed the ticket "unbeatable" and that it would win by "2,500 votes" and that if Koenig were running, he (Garraghan) would place his name in nomination.

Garraghan's conflicting statements leave Democrats in particular and Kingstonians in general in the dark as to where he really stands. The mayor reportedly left his office shortly after making those statements and will be in Boston for the weekend.

Garraghan also told The Freeman that he was "definitely out" of the race for mayor, "unless Tyrrell runs."

Tyrrell is James Tyrrell, operations manager of a local radio station, one of three declared Republican candidates for the mayoral nomination. Garraghan offered no reason why he would run against Tyrrell and Tyrrell, only, Tyrrell, himself, offered no reason, only allowing that he had figured Garraghan as a candidate "all along."

If Garraghan's purpose was to create wide-scale confusion during the crucial weekend before the conventions while he waited on the sidelines, unavailable for comment in Boston, he may well have accomplished it with today's conflicting statements.

On one hand, there is his initial statement of neutrality on the Koenig-Gallo ticket, which could be interpreted as non-support of what is considered by most Democrats as a potentially winning ticket. This coupled with his first public statement of the possibility of running against Tyrrell, would lead some political analysts to believe that Garraghan intended to run for reelection.

Believed Out of Race

On the other hand, his statement of strong support for the Koenig-Gallo ticket would tend to lead observers to believe that Garraghan was indeed out of the race.

Koenig told The Freeman that he is non-committed either way and that he still considers Garraghan "the party's number one boy." He said he has not met with the mayor on the possibility of either man's candidacy but will be meeting with Garraghan before the convention.

Gallo, apparently, is willing to run with either man as an alderman-at-large candidate. He said he is under the impression that Garraghan is in support of a Koenig-Gallo ticket.

Even in his statement of support for Koenig and Gallo, Garraghan left the door open for a mayoral run (himself) against Tyrrell.

Garraghan should know about Tyrrell's candidacy on Tuesday morning, the day after the Republican city convention and the day before the Democrats meet.

Reid's Swan Song: A Tax Cut

By SHANE CROSBY

ROSENDALE Mayor Joseph S. Reid, in his swan song, presented his proposed budget to the Village of Rosendale Wednesday evening, disclosing a $1.11 cut in the general tax rate and offering himself to assist the incoming administration of Mayor-elect William P. Curran.

The Mayor told Curran that if the new administration wanted to make any changes in the budget, he (Reid) would be "happy" to sit down with the new Mayor and go over the budget until March 31, the day before Curran takes office.

Reid said all that most new administrations could do with the budget given by outgoing mayors would be to make cuts.

He proposed that the two go over the budget to cover possible increases before Curran becomes Mayor, if desired. Curran would then be able to make increases as well as cuts.

The Mayor had predicted a decrease of at least $1 per $1,000 of valuation during the election campaign that saw him lose to Curran by 11 votes on Tuesday.

Reid said Curran saw no objection to the overall budget, calling it "satisfactory" but said the Mayor-elect objected to a combined bond issue that was proposed. Curran went against the Reid idea of com-binning three bond issues into one in an effort to save on legal fees that the Mayor called "terribly high."

He said Curran preferred to have the issues made separate. Resignations were received from Reid Administration workers, including Mrs. Marie Lamb, village clerk and treasurer; and Robert J. Sheehan, village water commissioner. Reid asked that the two remain on to assist in the turnover of duties to the new Republican Mayor and they agreed.

Curran attended the meeting of the Village Trustees with fellow Republicans Gerald DeFelicis, Supervisor of the Town of Rosendale, and Trustee-elect Kenneth Smith.

One of Curran's first comments after election was that the Village would begin a period of close cooperation with the Town of Rosendale.

The meeting was the last regular official conclave for the outgoing Mayor, who said he was mainly interested in a "smooth changeover" of administrations. He recalled the problems he said he faced when first taking office in 1967 and said he wanted to make the transition easier for Curran.

Mrs. Lamb told the Mayor-elect that records would be gone over and updated before the changeover and both she and the Mayor offered their services to the new administration when needed.

A safe in the offices of Schryver Lumber Company of Main Street, Rosendale, had been offered to the village for $90, according to Reid, but was turned down Wednesday evening after the Mayor-elect made an objection. Reid said the offer was withdrawn by the lumber company after the decision and said it would now be up to the new administration to acquire a safe for the village.

General Says Fighters Were Sent to Aid Pueblo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An Air Force general testified today he sent U.S. fighter planes to attack North Korean forces that captured the USS Pueblo but that the spy ship had been taken into a Communist port before they could reach the area.

Orders to Attack

Lt. Gen. Seth J. McKee, commander of the 5th Air Force at the time the Pueblo was seized, said his pilots flew from Okinawa "with orders to attack" the North Korean ships and planes after the Pueblo message it was surrounded and that MIG fighters were overhead.

"But, regrettably, they could not get there before the ship was captured and in port," McKee told a House armed services subcommittee conducting a special investigation of the incident.

The general, now Air Force assistant vice chief of staff, related F105 jets he sent to the Pueblo's aid began taking off from Okinawa at 4 p.m. local time.

At 4:45 p.m., he added, the Navy informed the Air Force that the Pueblo was estimated to be in North Korea's Wonsan harbor.

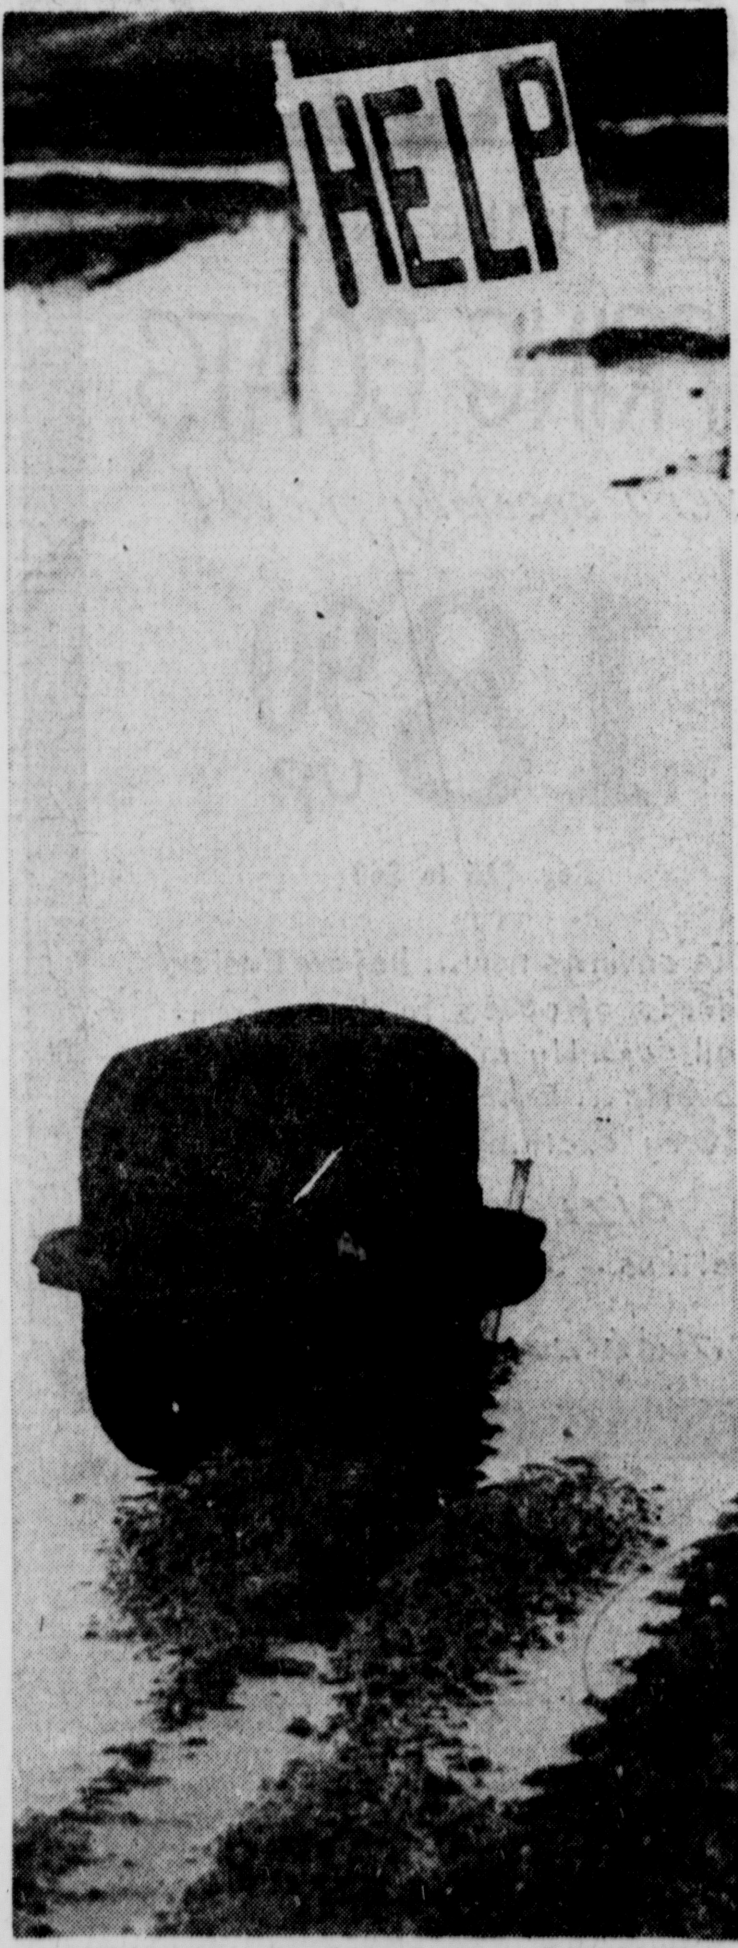

Unhappy Conclusion

"It was somewhere around this time that I came to the unhappy conclusion that we arrived too late to be of assistance to the Pueblo," McKee said, adding that the fighters were then directed to land in South Korea.

Retired Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp who was commander in chief in the Pacific at the time the Pueblo was seized Jan. 23, 1968, testified earlier this week that the Navy's view was that once the Pueblo was in the Red port, no retaliatory action could be taken without creating the danger of war.

McKee said the first Air Force planes took off one hour, 23 minutes after he gave the order to launch. He explained the delay by pointing out that the Navy had not requested any Air Force planes be put on alert during the Pueblo's mission off the North Korean coast.

Laird Cutting FB111 Plans, Will Buy Only 4 Squadrons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Pentagon leadership has all but shot down the FB111 strategic bomber former defense chief Robert S. McNamara insisted would be a good replacement for aging B52s.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird told Congress Wednesday he is cutting plans for the swing-wing jet to only four squadrons—a nominal 60 planes. Three years ago McNamara was proposing 250 FB111s—variants of the controversial TFX design—contending it would be about as good, and less expensive, as another advance bomber the Air Force could develop to haul its nuclear bombs in the 1970s.

To Recover Something
Laird made plain he was buying the four squadrons mainly to recover something from the vast funds spent on the program — "to salvage what we can of the work in process," as he put it.

Despite months of work, Laird said, the FB111 "is still experiencing development and production difficulties and the cost per aircraft continues to mount."

Pentagon officials said the 60 planes will cost $1.7 billion over-all, which includes heavy research and development expenses. McNamara originally estimated 250 models would cost $1.9 billion.

Laird said he would accelerate efforts to develop a completely new nuclear-equipped plane the Air Force calls the Advanced Manned Strategic Aircraft—AMSA.

Laird proposed spending $100 million to move toward full-scale engineering development for an AMSA in the next fiscal year.

The FB111 trimming was the latest setback to McNamara's program for having each of the services develop the planes they needed from one basic design.

The Navy tried to get a carrier-based fighter, the F111B, from the TFX design but junked the program after months of development difficulties and spending more than $200 million.

The Air Force fighter-bomber version, the F111A, is coming along with fewer problems although 13 have crashed during tests, combat trials in Southeast Asia and training flights. The Air Force says F111A bugs will be worked out and that it wants the plane.

Will Be An Asset

Laird apparently is also satisfied the F111A will be an asset in the Air Force inventory.

Pentagon officials say he has approved a force level of more than 400 F111As, about the same number authorized by the outgoing defense administration of Clark M. Clifford.

The FB111 will serve to bridge the gap between the B52 strategical bombers, developed in the 1950s, and the forthcoming AMSA.

Laird has not yet committed himself to buy the AMSA, saying only that engineering development this year would bring him more quickly to a point of decision.

The cost of buying 200 AMSAs has been estimated at $10 billion.

Dutchess Man Dies in Crash, Day After 46th Birthday

DOVER PLAINS contusions and possible internal injuries. A passenger in the Black car, Harold Gatewood, 53, of 80 Pershing Avenue, Poughkeepsie, sustained lacerations, puncture wounds of the legs, and an eye injury.

A 46-year-old Pleasant Valley man who marked his birthday Wednesday was fatally injured at 1:10 a. m. today and three other persons including his wife, were critically injured in a two-car head-on collision which occurred on Route 55 near Gardiner Hollow Road in the Dutchess County township of Beekman.

The victim, Hugh E. Black, of Timothy Heights, died of multiple injuries. He was the operator of one of the vehicles. The other car was driven by Gertrude Thomas, 49, of Route 22, Patterson.

Dover Plains State Police said the vehicles were traveling in opposite directions when the Thomas car reportedly crossed into the opposite lane where the vehicles crashed with violent force.

Black's wife, Edith, 39, suffered head lacerations and possible internal injuries. The Thomas woman received lacerations of the head, bruises and

Need Increased Presidential Efforts To End Fighting in Viet: Mansfield

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, who has tried to restrain critics of President Nixon's war policies, now says the administration's "gloomy report" on Vietnam points up the need for increased presidential efforts to end the fighting.

Mansfield said in an interview that testimony Wednesday by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird before a closed session of the Senate Armed Services Committee implied the administration is "planning for two more years of war."

"If that is so," the Democratic leader said, "it calls for greater, more concentrated and more private efforts at Paris to bring this war to an end."

Muted as Mansfield's criticism was it marked the first departure from his stand announced when Nixon took office of not attacking the President on Vietnam in order to allow him time to formulate his own policies.

Previously, Mansfield had refused to join such congressional doves as Sen. J. W. Fulbright and George S. McGovern who opened up recently on Nixon's handling of the war.

Laird, whose second appearance before the committee today was in open session, said Wednesday that military experts had told him an additional two years would be required before there could be satisfactory pacification of the Vietnamese countryside.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss.,

chairman of the committee said he hopes the overall military forecasts are in error.

"If that's correct," he said, "we're there for a long, long time."

British Troops Dine on 'C' Rations While Anguilla People Keep Close Watch

THE VALLEY, Anguilla (UPI) — British occupation troops, rifles by their sides, dined on "C" rations in the warm Caribbean sun today. Rebel President Ronald Webster said the future of his country was now up to God.

Webster said the tiny island's 6,000 residents would not resist the force of tough British paratroopers except to stage peaceful demonstrations against the invasion.

The soldiers were busy digging foxholes and polishing an array of weapons they have yet to use since storming ashore Wednesday.

Six thousand natives kept a watchful eye on them. Occasionally a trooper would share his chocolate bar with one of the children.

Webster likened the British takeover of the 15-mile-long morning to bring back to the West Indies isle to the Soviet-bloc invasion of Czechoslovakia, broke away from the three-island federation of St. Kitts.

92 Die in Arab Plane Crash

It Was Tumbling Ball of Flame

CAIRO (UPI)—A Soviet-made turboprop crammed with Moslems returning from Mecca scuffed a wing on landing at Aswan today and burst into flames. Ninety-two persons were killed.

The United Arab Airlines Ilyushin-18 carried a crew of seven and 94 Moslem pilgrims—a total of 101 persons. Fourteen survived but five of them died later in hospitals.

Reports said a wing dipped and caught the runway, turning the airliner into a tumbling ball of flame.

The wreckage blocked the runway and closed the airport at Aswan, 500 miles south of Cairo on the Nile River.

Both Cairo radio and the Middle East news agency (MENA) carried reports of the crash—Egypt's worst air disaster since May 20, 1965, when a Pakistani International Airliner crashed near Cairo, killing 121.

MENA said the four-engine plane had left Cairo Wednesday to pick up the Arab Moslem pilgrims and return them from Mecca.

Airline sources said Egypt's National Airline had taken delivery of the plane two weeks ago.

Cairo Radio said the crash occurred at 2 a.m. and fire occurred shortly before 8:08 a.m. EST.

Sheriff's officers said 24 persons were aboard but later said there may have been as many as 28.

Spokesmen at the Ochsner Foundation Hospital said they are treating four survivors of the crash. No names were given nor the extent of their injuries.

The Jefferson Parish sheriff's office said at least five persons survived the crash, which

Houst Defends the Appointments

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

WOODSTOCK — "Politics never crossed my mind and the Woodstock Zoning Ordinance is not a political matter," said Town Supervisor Milton Houst today.

Houst's statement came in the form of a reply to local residents who had been critical of the seven-member Zoning Review Committee appointed during a Town Board meeting Tuesday night. Among the critics were a number of residents who had worked for the passage of zoning in Woodstock, including some who now serve on zoning and planning agencies for the township. Their dissent with the selection of members made by Houst centered around the fact that the new review committee is entirely Republican in its composition, and that a "majority of the members" have shown "anti-zoning sentiments" in the past.

For his part, however, Houst told The Freeman he feels the committee "is representative of both sides of the pole." The opinions of those serving on the committee, he said, "vary from discarding the entire sign ordinance to finding little or no fault with the regulations as they stand."

While the committee was appointed to review the entire zoning ordinance, the town fathers made it clear that its work would place emphasis on the sign part of the regulations, governing commercial advertising for businesses.

Houst insisted opposing views were represented on the committee, in spite of the fact that his critics are of the opinion the group is composed of a careerists or residents who have advocated changing the laws.

opinions with others who want only one or two changes, and maintaining a good cross section backgrounds, is the most feasible method of finding a fair and acceptable ordinance," said Benneyan, retired magazine advertising executive. Also serving are Mrs. Kiki Minervini, advertising manager of a local newspaper, and Albert Cashdollar, whose lengthy political career has seen him serving as Ulster County treasurer, Woodstock supervisor, and Superintendent of Highways for the township.

In spite of Houst's defense of his appointments, some town officials, both past and present, expressed concern in varying degrees. One said he was "not unduly concerned" with the group's makeup at this point.

Any action to change the committee or town fathers take in the future will have to be done by following the "same, strict formalities" as in the past, he said. Woodstock's zoning problems will not be "solved" by simply appointing a committee, he noted, since nothing can be done to amend the or

A Fresh Start Sought by Ray

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray wants the judge to reopen the Martin Luther King Jr. murder case, void his plea of guilty and give him a trial by jury.

Ray's intention to seek a new hearing was stated in a letter he wrote from his cell in the state penitentiary to Judge W. Preston Battle, who on March 10 accepted the guilty plea and imposed a 99-year sentence.

"He said he's going to file a postconviction petition and get a lawyer," Judge Battle said Wednesday in disclosing receipt of the letter. "If he does, then we'll have an evidentiary hearing."

Such a hearing would give Ray a chance to show that his legal rights were impaired to the extent that a new start in the case is warranted.

Expressing no surprise at Ray's move, Judge Battle commented: "Everybody does it." Petitions from prisoners have flooded the courts in recent years in the wake of Supreme Court decisions more sharply delineating the pretrial rights of accused persons.

Percy Foreman, the lawyer who advised Ray to plead guilty and who says his connection with the prisoner is now ended, said in New York:

"I think that James Earl Ray enjoys the spotlight and any way he can keep the center of the stage he will do it. I wish him well. I don't think it advisable, but that's his responsibility, not mine."

Foreman reiterated his personal conviction that contrary to the views of many who suspect a conspiracy, Ray acted alone.

"I think James Earl Ray was a racist. He thought he would be a hero. He completely misconceived the thinking of the white race."

Only a day after his guilty plea Ray told officers taking him from Memphis to the Nashville penitentiary:

"I was convinced if I didn't plead guilty I was going to the electric chair. I wish the hell I hadn't now because with what they had on me I believe the worst I'd gotten would have been life."

Under a 99-year sentence, Ray, now 41, is ineligible to seek parole until he has served 30 years. With a life sentence he would be eligible in 13 years 7 months.

GOP Puts Emphasis On Welfare Cuts

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Republican legislative leaders put emphasis on deeper welfare cuts today as they set a deliberate but less hurried pace in arriving at modifications of Gov. Rockefeller's $6.4-billion budget.

"Well, not in those terms." The speaker said he was hoping for "equitable" cuts in school aid, that is taking into account the problems of the poorer districts without "throwing the cities out of kilter."

Meanwhile Gov. Buford Ellington of Tennessee, referring to the theory that Ray was part of a conspiracy, said he wonders how "one man alone could do all the things he did."

"The assumption was that we were a lot further along than we are," Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea Jr. said at a news conference Wednesday.

Duryea's assessment came in response to a reporter's query as to where the GOP leadership stood concerning rank-and-file support of a spending plan, especially in the light of possible recalcitrance by Nassau County Republicans.

The speaker played down the concern of the Long Island group, whose votes will be crucial when the budget bill reaches the floor. But he conceded that "we've got a lot of mechanical work to do."

Asked whether he had a timetable, Duryea smiled and said: "We'd like to have a budget before the new fiscal year."

The new fiscal year begins a week from next Tuesday.

Although maneuvering over the budget again highlighted activity at the Capitol, two other priority issues resurfaced.

The Assembly Codes Committee was to vote today on a measure that would add five grounds for legal abortions in the state.

The Assembly Education Committee had bills for decentralizing New York City's huge school system on its agenda.

Duryea told the news conference the Republicans were trying to save the state $10 million in welfare costs in the new fiscal year—or double the $50 million Rockefeller said could be cut through his five per cent, across-the-board slash in normally higher spending.

The speaker indicated that four areas were ripe for some "closing up."

He listed changing the residency requirement for welfare applicants, preventing dual payments, cutting administrative costs and making "flat grants" to recipients, instead of reducing their welfare checks by five per cent.

Under present law, persons who have been in the state for less than six months may be denied welfare if they came to New York with the express purpose of getting such benefits.

Duryea said the residency requirement may be extended to a year. He estimated the saving at $7 or $8 million.

Sen. William E. Adams, R-Kenmore, recently said his Joint Legislative Committee on Welfare was considering 14 proposals designed to effect economies.

They would apply to such areas as nursing and hospital reimbursement rates, in addition to those mentioned by Duryea.

The speaker said another prime concern of the leadership was state aid to local school districts.

Assemblyman Joseph Margiotta said Wednesday that Nassau County's eight Republican assemblymen and five GOP senators would not vote for a budget containing less assistance than school officials had anticipated receiving.

Margiotta, the county's Republican chairman, said he had told Duryea and Rockefeller this personally.

Asked whether such was the case, Duryea told a reporter:

Hearing Set March 27 on Toll-Free Plan

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and Kingston area residents will have an opportunity at a March 27 public hearing to speak on a New York Telephone Co. proposal to establish a toll-free calling area in parts of three counties.

The hearing will be in the Dutchess County courthouse at 10 a.m.

The telephone company reports that basic monthly increases at 24 exchanges involved would total $2.4 million, the Public Service Commission said.

Tolls now producing $1.6 million in annual revenue would be eliminated.

PROTEST SENTENCE — State University of Buffalo students took over Hayes Hall Wednesday to protest the three-year sentencing of a draft resister. The students have presented four demands to the University and said they will hold the hall until demands are met. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Facts About Sirhan

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The psychologist had testified Sirhan B. Sirhan did not have the mental capacity to premeditate the murder of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Dr. Roderick Richardson on the witness stand, waited for the next question from prosecuting attorney David Fitts.

"Did you form an opinion then of what sort of person might have killed the senator?" Fitts asked.

"Yes, the first thing that popped into my mind was that he must be a paranoid personality."

"You formed that judgment just from newspapers and radio and television?"

"Yes. If you look through the history of assassins you will find that almost all of them tend to be paranoid people. I think almost every psychologist and psychiatrist would reach the same conclusion."

"Then when you questioned him in his cell you went in with a preconceived opinion?"

"I pride myself that I let the impact of the tests hit me fresh. We make it almost a fetish in our profession that we can remove bias when we begin a professional task."

"diminished capacity" that ruled out his conformance to the rules of society.

"He felt he was a soldier, a representative of his nation and in his delusions could not comprehend his duty to act in accordance with the law," Richardson said.

The psychologist said that when he saw Sirhan in jail "he was getting worse, he was descending further into mental illness."

Richardson resumed the witness stand when the trial convened today. He was to be followed by five more psychologists and psychiatrists testifying for the defense.

National Poison Control Week

Pre-School Age Children Usual Victims

Is there a killer
in your medicine chest?

CHEST KILLER? — Display released by Kingston Hospital Poison Control Center points out the potential dangers lurking in medicine cabinets. Simple precautions to avoid these dangers were listed today by spokesmen of the Kingston Hospital Poison Control Center in conjunction with National Poison Control Week March 17-22. (Freeman photo by Haines).

"Warning, poison." "Keep out of reach of children." "Harmful if swallowed." These are just a sample of the many statements now printed on every-day household products that, if used incorrectly or made available to children, can cause sickness and even death.

Seven out of every 10 persons treated for accidental poisoning at the Kingston Hospital Poison Control Center last year were pre-school age children. That harsh statistic was issued this week by the hospital in conjunction with National Poison Control Week, March 17 to 22.

Of 242 cases of poisoning treated in 1968 in the Kingston Center, 170 were under five years old, 33 were less than a year old and 137 were between one and five.

Others Treated

Others treated included 15 persons between five and 15 years old and 57 persons over 15. Of the total treated, 85 required hospitalization.

What caused the poisoning? Most were from items that are so commonly used around the house that they are ignored as possible dangers to health; such as household plants, painted furniture, cleaning fluids, repainted toys and just about anything a child can get its hands on.

Most of the persons treated at the center were poisoned by internal medications, including aspirin, that accounted for 62.5 per cent of all reported incidents, a hospital spokesman said.

A two-year-old girl was treated there over the weekend after getting her hands on a bottle of brand-name patented cough syrup used by her family.

At her age, says Dr. William E. Askue of the center, pre-school children begin to climb on chairs and tables to open cupboards and medicine closets. "They taste, bite and try to swallow anything they can."

Pre-school children have a natural learning process that involves investigating the fascinating world into which he was born, he said. What may be safe for an adult, can be fatally attractive to a youngster. Some children even chew on furniture, toys and woodwork when teething, he pointed out.

Recommended Procedure

The recommended procedure is to call the family doctor first in an event of accidental poisoning. Because of the complexity and number of household products as well as medicines on the market today, Dr. Askue advises that it is important to retain the container and unused portion of the product taken in order to enable the doctor to identify the ingredient and determine appropriate treatment. The Kingston Hospital Center, operated through the Emergency Room, is continually adding to its file of products, ingredients and antidotes. Bulletins are regularly received from the Food and Drug Administration, Clearing house of Poison Control Centers and the American Association of Poison Control Centers.

Doctors are able to telephone the center at any hour to locate the information. Last year, said the center, a total of 291 calls were answered regarding needed information.

Simple Precautions

Some of the simple precautions parents can follow to prevent, or at least greatly reduce the opportunities for accidental poisoning include:

- Store all medicines out of a child's reach, preferably in a locked cabinet.
- Never leave medicine in a child's room.
- Label all medicines.
- Use safety lock type containers and individually wrapped tablets such as ones now marketed by several manufacturers.
- Never tell a child that medicine is "candy." Be especially careful about aspirin, which causes a large portion of poison-ing accidents. ● Keep fuel oils and household chemicals of all sorts out of a child's reach. Never use food in containers for the storage of such items. Keeping kerosene or empty bottles completely be-fore putting them into the trash, drink bottle, for instance, can be fatally attractive to a child. ● If you repaint toys, furniture and interior woodwork, do not use exterior paint that may con-tain lead.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 20, 1969

Urban Renewal Progress?

Kingston Urban Renewal Director James G. Conners revealed no significant progress in the two city's projects in his appearance Tuesday before members of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

He said the state's share of the parking structure planned for uptown would be $720,000, which will necessitate extra money from local sources for completion. Federal money cannot be used for parking garages. The agency hoped to retain as many of the historic structures as possible. We agree that it is important to recognize the value of the city's heritage, its individuality and preserve it. So much for uptown.

In the Broadway East project in the downtown section, he saw the possibility of the reconstruction of seven private homes starting in June. He appealed to the people of the community to put pressure on the State Department of Transportation in Albany for action on the proposed Ulster Arterial. So much for downtown.

When the urban renewal project was started here several years ago, it was reported that some $9,000,000 was reserved by the Federal and State governments for the uptown and the downtown projects. It was also noted the anticipated investment of private capital was expected to bring the total long-range expansion program to around $50,000,000. With this kind of investment, there would be a definite change in the image of the revitalized sections and the city's revenues from taxes would be increased greatly. This grandiose picture appears far from fulfillment.

The only change in the image of both sections of the city where the projects are underway to date is vacant land and razed properties. The bulldozers moved into high gear, but redevelopment of the cleared areas is still at a standstill.

We realize that urban renewal is not easily accomplished or that its objectives can be achieved without problems, but from the very start the local project lacked careful, competent planning which would have given the city good development following the demolition. The rifts between the local agency, the regional office and Ex-Congressman Resnick didn't help the cause.

As we stated before, why destroy present buildings and remove them from the assessment rolls without a follow-up construction program?

The urban renewal project here still can be one of the most momentous undertakings in the history of the city, but the razing of buildings in both ends of the community at one and the same time cannot continue indefinitely without permanent damage to the community. The erection of dwelling units should receive first priority in the downtown section before any more structures are knocked down.

Reflectorized Plates

The New York State Assembly has passed a bill requiring reflectorized license plates. The Senate should not waste any time approving this measure and sending it to Governor Rockefeller for his signature.

There is no question such plates gives cars an additional safety factor. They are urged by the State Traffic Safety council and numerous organizations including the New York Police Chiefs and Sheriffs Associations. Thirty-four states now require reflectorized plates, which assure parked or stalled cars visibility at night; provide a "fail-safe" factor when tail lights are broken or not working; provide safety visibility in angle parking situations.

There are too many lives at stake to further delay adoption of this measure.

David Lawrence Says

Will Inflation Be Curbed By Boost in Interest Rate?

WASHINGTON — When the average person reads that the "prime" rate of interest has been advanced to 7½ per cent by commercial banks and is told that this has something to do with the effort to curb inflation, there is no way to answer the most important question of all: Will it work?

For in an economy which now has such a tremendous volume of business operations — a gross national product of about 915 billion dollars — who can really apply brakes? The government alone can't do it, as the demand for the production of more goods is virtually uncontrollable. People want more housing, more automobiles and more highways. More machinery is necessary to manufacture goods at less expense.

Expansion nowadays is called a "boom" because the growth of industry is rapid. But when it is considered that the United States has 200 million people and in the next 25 years the figure may rise to 250 million, the difficulty comes in trying to measure supply and demand for such a huge system of free enterprise.

America is a wealthy country — the richest in the world — and it has a large credit reservoir of its own. Industry's extra facilities are built in part on borrowed money, and just now companies are in the midst of a period of enlargement of their plants, equipment and machinery.

The purpose of the hike in interest rates is not to cripple expansion but to postpone much of it until a stabilized economy can be attained. The risk of such intervention by money managers in the government, however, is that it may bring a slump and a loss of confidence by investors. Appeals for restraint have been going on for more than a year, but things haven't slowed down much, despite cuts in the federal budget, a tax hike, and efforts to restrict credit.

The dollar is, of course, steadily depreciating in value as it buys less and less. Unemployment hasn't grown, and wage raises are still being made. In fact, the Department of Commerce has just reported that the American people got an increase in income in February of 5.25 billion dollars, which is double the rise in earnings for January of this year. Manufacturing industries, particularly, augmented their payrolls, and two thirds of the gain was among the producers of metals, machinery and lumber products. Another big advance was in the wages paid by corporations engaged in operating transportation, communications and public-utility systems.

So, even though the rate for borrowing has gone up, it remains questionable whether the trend in wages will halt expansion plans. This brings up the question of whether the country wouldn't have been better off if Congress has imposed wage-and-price controls when the Vietnam war started to strain the economy and push up living costs. Houses now are more expensive to build than the same homes were a few years ago. The rise in interest rates, however, is not expected to cause any serious downturn in the demand for mortgage money.

There is a lot of talk, to be sure, of stringent measures which President Nixon may take. But while there may be budget cuts, the key to whether the inflationary boom is being restrained will be found in the banking world, where the cost of credit is expected to continue to rise. The hope is that this will cause spending to be deferred on projects that can be put aside for a year or so. Any major restriction of credit affects business transactions on the consumer as well as the industrial front.

Even more uncertainty as to the future trend of the economy arises from the Vietnam War situation. If some slowing down of the war expenditures is made possible through a peace agreement or perhaps through the withdrawal of a large part of the American military forces during the next two years, the impact on the economy will be steadily felt.

What the administration would like to accomplish is a curtailment of government expenditures, but at a pace described as "gradualism," so that there will be no sudden collapse of defense contracts which would have an adverse effect on the whole economy. Nobody knows yet whether this can be done, since there is still no sign of any desire on the part of the Communists to co-operate in making plans for the ending of the war.

as if the betterment meant smooth sailing for France in the forthcoming negotiations.

The French President couldn't have been more wrong if he had been a three-dollar bill. Instead of the picture of Gaulle painted, the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor (CGT), France's largest union, greeted the negotiations with a roaring shout of defiance. Behind the scenes, de Gaulle retreated.

He offered a 4 per cent general wage increase, saying it would be the limit without risking further inflation and possibly devaluing the franc.

Not only the CGT but the major unions as a whole demanded 10 or 12 per cent. Another nationwide strike resulted.

The six Common Market countries had $900 million foreign trade surplus last year — the highest in the community's 11-year history. This compared with a $1.6 billion aggregate deficit in 1966. But as long as a year ago this month the Brussels headquarters warned that a gradual export deterioration had set in and that balance-of-payment strains were ahead — not behind — for the Common Market community.

De Gaulle met this forecast with a disdain slightly smaller in size than South Texas. But that's what France now faces. Three strange bedfellows — England, Algeria and Russia — further compound the outcome. Britain is France's best export customer. More than 20 per cent of all French exports go to the United Kingdom. France is more severely damaged by the pound-sterling-crisis import restrictions than any Common Market country.

Algeria's economy lives on the French sufferance. For example, France is a good market for Algeria's fruit and her low-grade, low-priced wine, which is presently in heavy surplus. The Russians are using France's weakened economic condition to move in.

With the strikes that attended the March talk, shiploads of Moroccan orange; en route France were threatened with spoilage. The U.S.S.R. stepped in and bought the cargoes in an economic and political coup that put Russia in a highly benevolent position in her North African trade rivalry with France.

President Nixon and Secretary Kennedy know that if the wreckage is to be saved and de Gaulle's miscalculations overcome this can be done only by putting our own financial house in order.

Any monetary system will work for us if we have a balanced budget and an equilibrium in our balance of payments. No system will work for us without these indispensable supports. "Paper gold" is no remedy for a U.S. economy that is out of control any more than it is for the economy of France.

Drew Pearson Says North Vietnamese May Call Nixon's One-Warning Bluff

WASHINGTON — There are ominous signs that the North Vietnamese intend to call President Nixon's bluff and test out his recent press conference statement that he will warn them only once. The implication was that he might resume bombing North Vietnam if the communist attacks continue.

This would be a reverse step which could return all the headaches and heartaches suffered by the Johnson administration: the peace marches, intensified campus revolts, and draft card burnings.

Obviously this is something a President wants to avoid. And though Mr. Nixon was quite firm in his one warning statement, actually he has given at least two warnings behind the scenes.

Warning No. 1 was delivered by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge to the North Vietnamese at the Paris peace conference. Lodge also accused the North Vietnamese of violating the verbal agreement that led to Johnson's bombing halt.

Warning No. 2 was delivered indirectly by Secretary of State William P. Rogers through Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin that the United States would be compelled to retaliate if the North Vietnamese attacks continued. It was hoped that the Russians might be able to influence Hanoi to exercise restraint.

The Russians have been quite helpful in the past but have constantly cautioned that their influence with Ho Chi Minh is limited.

Nixon on Box

If the North Vietnamese attacks do continue, President Nixon will find himself in a bind. Obviously he doesn't want to resume bombing, with all its public reaction. Obviously he has also got himself out on a limb by stating that he would warn only once.

The facts regarding the escalating war are complicated but important. As pieced together from intelligence reports and talks with experienced diplomats, here is a summary of what has happened:

By NOEL GROVE

(NEA Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — This spring, Nader's Raiders will be swooping down on Fort Establishment again. For now, they're lying back in the shadows of Ivy League universities, gathering ammo, new recruits and, hopefully, money.

Seven of them — law students — investigated the Federal Trade Commission last summer. Someone tacked the name Nader's Raiders on them because they were coached by consumer watchdog Ralph Nader.

In hearings conducted by the FTC at the end of the summer, members of the student team accused the agency of political patronage, cronyism and "tired blood." The generation gap yawned at modish young men ticked off complaints and charges that left members of the commission sputtering and angry.

"I want to assure you I don't have tired blood," growled Commissioner A. Everett MacIntyre. And FTC Chairman Paul Rand Dixon called the group's findings "a hysterical, anti-business diatribe."

Their response is understandable. In a report of the summer's findings, the students stated flatly that the FTC, created to protect the consumer, doesn't live up to its potential and that most of its troubles stem from weak leadership.

Weak Leadership

Raiders reported finding a high-placed FTC official asleep in his office, a newspaper over his face, and upon being awakened could explain his work only in very vague terms. Another could never be contacted in his office despite

1. At the time of the bombing pause last October, the North Vietnamese had pulled their troops back and generally had deescalated the war. There were fewer casualties, and it looked as if the North Vietnamese genuinely wanted peace.

2. Immediately after President Johnson's Oct. 31 announcement of a complete bombing halt in the north, Gen. Creighton Abrams intensified ground operations against the Viet Cong in South Vietnam. He was careful to avoid attacks on the north, but stepped up bombing in the south. It was explained that the United States wanted to "negotiate from strength."

3. U. S. surveillance showed that the North Vietnamese were rushing military supplies and reserve units south over bridges previously subject to American attack.

"Ta, Ta, Tan, Tan"

Experienced diplomats contend that this was in response to Gen. Abrams' intensification of the war; that they too wanted to "negotiate from strength."

American military men contend that the North Vietnamese were taking advantage of our bombing halt; that the communist strategy is that of Mao Tse-tung, "Ta, ta, tan, tan," which means "Fight, fight, talk, talk."

One intercepted enemy message put it: "The more we win militarily, the more political and diplomatic advantages we will create."

Whichever side is right in this argument — U.S. diplomats or the U.S. military — it remains a fact that the latest North Vietnamese offensive did not begin until Feb. 23, one month after Nixon became President. Two earlier attempts were broken up by devastating American firepower.

In Paris, meanwhile, the North Vietnamese had been willing to talk privately to Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. This had been arranged by Ambassadors Averell Harriman and Cyrus Vance during the closing days of the Johnson administration. But at first no authorization for private talks came through from President Nixon. Six important weeks passed with casualties mounting.

There were three private contacts, but only over inconsequential matters — two merely courtesy calls, one an exchange of protests over battlefield incidents.

Private talks finally were authorized only last week, but now another hitch has developed. The South Vietnamese keep raising obstacles.

All in all it looks as if Richard Nixon is about to face his first crucial test as President.

Campaign Loot

George Aiken, venerable orchardist from Vermont, was reelected to the Senate for another six years last November. But already he has received a campaign contribution for his reelection in 1974.

The contribution came from Admiral Hyman Rickover, father of the nuclear submarine, who probably violated the Hatch Act, which forbids government servants from contributing to election campaigns. Nevertheless, Rickover, who has braved the wrath of a good many brass hats, went ahead anyway.

Noting that Aiken has spent a total of $16 for campaign expense six years ago, and $17.09 for expenses in 1968 — due to the increase in postage — Admiral Rickover wrote Sen. Aiken a letter saying that he wanted to be the first to contribute to his reelection. He encloses a six-cent stamp.

Postal Politics

Postmaster General Winton Blount has shown no sign of relenting in his determination to take the Post Office out of politics.

Despite pressure from Republican Congressmen who would like to get postmasterhips and rural carrier routes for their political friends, Blount is putting these jobs on the merit system.

He has also appointed a task force of 15 business managers from private industry to inspect the postal regions and report back to him how their operations can be made more efficient.

Nader's Raiders to Ride Again

several attempts through the summer, and his embarrassed secretary could not say when he would be back, whether he was on extended leave, vacation or what.

Robert Fellmeth is one of the original seven Raiders. A second-year Harvard Law School student, he thinks there are some bad kinks in American society and this is a good way to straighten them out.

"It seems exciting when you talk about it," he said, "but actually Nader's Raiders is kind of a misnomer. What it is really is a lot of hard work — hours and hours of going over material that is just the most boring, trivial junk. But perhaps the junk is there to cover up something."

Nader himself did not directly supervise the group, although he brought them together, chose the FTC as a target, and coached them in methods of investigation.

"He insisted that all methods be completely above reproach," said John Schulz, Yale Law School graduate and now a law instructor at the University of Southern California. "There was to be none of the traditional methods of investigation, such as getting an employee drunk and playing him with questions, or making promises to staff people such as 'you tell us this and we'll go easy on you.'"

The work last summer was done without pay. This year the students are seeking funds from various sources to pay expenses.

"But even if we don't get grants, I'm coming, no matter what," said Fellmeth. "I think this is the greatest way of effecting change."

"Look at the impact when we came in and started poking around. A lot of people are willing to scream and point their finger and say look how evil it is, but all they have to do is get in there with a shovel and they could do a hell of a lot."

"Like a lot of young people, we were kind of in agony about things. We were all filled with ninth-grade civics, and then you get older and see what's around you and the conflict is terrific."

"What we've found here is an opportunity to actually do something to resolve those conflicts."

Raiders ranks will swell this year, he believes. "If I could have expenses paid, I could have half of Harvard Law School in Washington doing investigations this summer," he says.

"I know about 30 agencies that are just ripe."

Bombing Halt Hurts Ho

By RAY CROMLEY

(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON (NEA) —

Information reaching this reporter from Hong Kong indicates that the bombing halt which he wanted so badly has turned out to be a mixed blessing for Ho Chi Minh.

Prior to the halt, Ho could blame his growing economic and political problems on the bombing. He could also use the air attacks as a spur and as an excuse for forcing people to endure greater sacrifices.

Now Ho has no such convenient crutch.

The people are finding that the bombing was not the only cause of North Vietnam's economic stagnation.

Increasing numbers of troops mobilized and sent southward for the Vietnam war and held and shortages must be made as backup for that war have up by more severe rationing rosy for Ho's planners as they caused important manpower and increased imports of rice had expected.

shortages in agriculture and from Communist China and industry. For the most part wheat from Russia. These have been young men of Coal output continues to decline.

The bombing halt, of course, is releasing tens of thousands of forestry, construction, the light who were needed for bridge and industries and fishing. Work road repair. But the shortages lags at the collective farms remain. In part, the release of because farmers are busy with these men has been offset by their own private — and more a lessening of effort in recent profitable — plots.

None of this is to suggest Hanoi is now ready to end the war in South Vietnam or prepared to make major concessions at Paris. Ho and his port management corruption men are dogmatists willing to make much greater sacrifices than this to achieve their ends.

Effectiveness of the bombing was evidenced by Ho's extreme determination to get it stopped.

What these reports seem to say is now that the bombing is stopped, things are not as rosy for Ho's planners as they had expected.

Public Would Base Welfare on Cost of Living

By GEORGE GALLUP

Copyright, 1969, American Institute of Public Opinion. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with written consent of the copyright holders.

PRINCETON, N. J.—The idea of equalizing welfare payments, basing them on the cost of living in a particular area of the nation, appeals to a substantial majority of Americans. The proposal has been put forth as a way of stemming the migration of poor to the large cities where welfare payments are higher.

A recent Gallup survey shows three persons out of every four (77 per cent) in favor of the survey plan, including majorities of both races, in each income level, and in all regions of the nation.

Daniel P. Moynihan, head of the Administration's Council on Urban Affairs, has proposed a similar welfare plan, designed to reverse the trend of poor people leaving states where payments are small and moving to big city states of the North where welfare and relief payments are more liberal. His plan would require states to meet national standards of welfare payments.

Welfare payments on the average are far higher in the North than in the South. A family in New York City, for example, may receive more than $70 per month from the Aid to Families with Dependent Children Program, while a similar case in Mississippi may get less than $10 per month.

A 38-year old New York City resident supports the survey plan: "I'm all for it if it will put an end to the huge numbers of people pouring into New York. We've got enough costs now."

A 34-year old Tampa, Florida, engineer said: "Such a plan would encourage people to stay where they are. And frankly, they'd be better off if they did."

Here is the way the plan was presented to a carefully selected sample of 1486 persons living in more than 300 localities across the nation:

It has been suggested that to keep poor people from being attracted to big cities where welfare payments are higher, welfare payments be equalized—that is, based on the cost of living in each area. Does this sound like a good idea to you for a poor idea?

Here are the results for the nation as a whole:

Reds' 'Failure' Strategy Is Wearing Down West Berlin

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—An

often-used but little understood

Kremlin technique is a strategy which might be called "success through repeated failure."

In this strategy, the Russians

try some hopeless aggressive action and fail. They try again and again—until their opponent

(who is winning all the time)

finally grows weary and gives in—with some face-saving gesture.

West Berlin today is just such an example.

The Russians and East Germans failed to keep the West

German from holding their case, the East Germans promised nothing, except to talk.

They did not promise that the talks would bring concessions on their part in return for the proposed cancellation of plans to hold the election in West

Berlin.

But in this exchange the East by the mammoth Allied airlift.

● In the string of threats and provocations on and off that the West Germans were during the 20 years since the Berlin airlift.

But the word that comes to this reporter from West German sources is that though the Russians have failed again

they have won after all.

West Germans in high places have begun to argue in private sessions that elections in West Berlin are not worth the recurrent tensions and alarms

associated with the repeated

Russian and East German threats.

The West Germans, in short,

are tired. The Russian-East

German on-again, off-again attacks have gone on too long.

Czechoslovakia, too, has left its effect. The West Germans are not completely certain what could set the Russians off.

Note that in this war of nerves the East Germans and Russians have attempted the same type of pressure Hanoi brought on Washington in the Vietnam war.

Ho Chi Minh's men said they would not talk unless the bombing were first halted, thus demanding a one-sided concession with no promises in return.

U. S. Law Would Wreck Peru's Economy

By DICK KLEINER

West Coast Correspondent

LIMA, Peru—(NEA)—The

question most Peruvians are asking is this: Just how far will the United States go in protecting the interests of American business in Peru?

The answer may come on April 9. Depending on that answer, the economic structure of Peru could be devastated, the economic and perhaps personal safety of 12,000 Americans in Peru could be endangered and a precedent could be established which would alter for all time

the role of American business operations overseas.

All this revolves around the

IPC case. IPC is the International Petroleum Company which, while technically a Canadian corporation is actually owned by Standard Oil of New Jersey.

The IPC case has rankled in Peru for more than 30 years.

The Peruvians have become emotionally super-charged about it. Governments have risen and fallen because of it.

And, presently, millions of dollars and the future of the U.S.-

Peruvian relations are on the line.

It all began back in 1924,

when IPC bought from the British 165,000 acres of rich oil

land in northern Peru.

Confused Situation

The situation is confused with tax laws, arbitration agreements, legalities concerning subsurface rights. IPC says that, since their purchase was made before subsequent laws

which reserved subsurface

rights to the state, those laws

don't apply. Peru claims IPC owes millions in back taxes.

In any case, in '67 Peru expropriated the subsurface rights and, last year, added the entire

IPC industrial complex on the surface. They had previously wiped out all the legal basis

IPC claimed for its position—

simply by passing new laws which said that the old ones had never existed.

The U.S. government's position is that it recognizes

Peru's right to take public land—but also contends that

Peru must pay compensation

when they do. Peru claims that, first, IPC must pay its debts—

back taxes owed and other moneys for delivery of oil since the government took over.

IPC has refused to pay these alleged debts. And Peru has refused to talk about compensation until the debts are paid.

And that leaves the situation

now squarely up to the United States. An American law—the Hickenlooper Act—says that if just compensation is not paid

within six months after expropriation, then the United States will cut off foreign aid to the country involved. This could mean cancellation of the sugar

quota—which, in Peru's case, would virtually wreck the economy.

This Hickenlooper Act has only been invoked once by the United States—it happened in Ceylon—but it could happen here on April 9. If it does, it could bring about an ugly situation.

"We're frankly scared," an American insurance company owner in Lima told me. "Not so much for our lives but for our businesses.

"We might have to be ordered out in 48 hours," another American said. "I'd lose everything I own."

While there is some talk of a compromise, others think this is unlikely. The IPC case has become such a cause celebre

here that any government—even the current military dictatorship of Gen. Juan Velasco

Alvarado—would be in serious trouble if it backed down.

Economic Pressures

Already, there are economic pressures being brought on

Peru. American investors are not investing, waiting to see what happens.

But Peru has an ace up its sleeve, too. They have recently established diplomatic relations with Russia and a Russian trade mission was welcomed warmly. Velasco says this has been in the works a long time, and that it happened at this time is pure coincidence, but here put it, are on "a collision course."

Eventually, this territorial seas problem could be of even more significance than the IPC case, but today it is the latter which grabs Peru. The people talk about it constantly—the Americans as well as Peruvians.

They all admit that, down through the years, the problem could and should have been solved, that both sides handled themselves badly, that it may be too late.

At the moment, Peruvian anger is directed toward the company, and they are careful to point out that they consider IPC separate from the U. S. Most Peruvians are pro-

U. S., although anti-IPC. But if the worst that could happen happens on April 9, they could election in West Berlin.

FBI Agent Foils Gunman In Attempted Hijacking

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A gunman who had ordered a flight to Cuba was disarmed and arrested aboard an airliner by an FBI agent among the passengers when the plane landed here to refuel.

Pistol Goes Off
As the agent, big, graying

John Reed, struggled with the would-be hijacker, the man's .22-caliber pistol went off, but the bullet ricocheted off the floor without hitting anybody.

The FBI identified the gunman as Douglas Alton Dickey, 27, and said documents in his possession showed he was born in Casa Grande, Ariz. He was held on a federal charge of air piracy, which carries a maximum penalty of death.

Robert E. Rightmyer, agent in charge of the New Orleans FBI office, said Dickey boarded the plane, Delta Airlines Flight 918, Wednesday night at Dallas. Rightmyer said the man produced his pistol and took over the plane about five minutes before it was scheduled to land at New Orleans. He agreed to a landing when the pilot said he could not make it to Cuba without refueling.

Seek Burglar Who Stole $11

A fence climbing burglar was sought today by city detectives in connection with a break-in at the Fowler and Keith Hardware Store at 104 Smith Avenue, which netted about $11.

Det. Lt. Lemuel Howard reported that the owner of the establishment, Marty Aaron, left the store at 6:30 p. m. from the cash register.

Once the plane was on the ground, Rightmyer said, the gunman said the 89 other passengers could get off. The last passenger to approach the exit door, where the man stood gun in hand, was Reed, assistant special agent in charge at Oklahoma City.

Reed stopped in front of the man and informed him he was under arrest. He said the man replied:

"I do not intend to kill you but I am going to Havana and I am going to shoot you in the leg."

POLITICIAN DIES —

Leander Perez, the fiery, silver-haired Louisiana political leader who battled the federal government and was excommunicated from the Roman Catholic church because of his segregationist views, died at his home in Bell Chase, La. He was 77. The cause of death was not immediately determined, but Perez had recently been hospitalized with heart trouble (UPI TELEPHOTO)

State Awards Contracts for HRSH Center

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller announced today that the state has awarded $2.9 million in contracts for the construction of a rehabilitation center at Hudson River State Hospital near Poughkeepsie.

He said the new building will house a comprehensive program of social and vocational rehabilitation services to prepare mentally ill patients for their return to the community.

The one-story building is expected to be completed by the end of 1970. It is the sixth of 15 community-oriented rehabilitation centers to be built at state hospitals for the mentally ill.

Local Church Panel Friday

N. Y. School and Racial Issues Will Be Topics

KINGSTON to be," and clarify the basic Educational and racial issues on the school control in New York City will highlight very.

Panel discussion Friday at 2 p.m. at Trinity United Methodist Church, on Wurts Street, during which panelists will "tell it like it is" and "like it ought."

Sponsored by the Kingston Area Council of Churches, panelists will discuss real issues in school decentralization. Citizens of the Kingston area, who may be confused by New York City television stations' comments, will get the facts first hand from those who are directly involved in the situation in New York City.

Local Pastor Moderator

The Rev. James Veatch, pastor of Trinity United

Martin Duffy, minister of Methodist Church, will be the Moderator. Co-chairmen of the sponsoring group are the Rev. William A. Studwell and the Rev. Mr. Veatch.

The Rev. Mr. Duffy is a member of the Inter-Religious Committee for Community Control in New York City, a broadly based ecumenical group incorporating Catholic, Jewish and Protestant representation from 25 local and national organizations, organized about three months ago.

The Inter-Religious Committee believes public education in New York City should be controlled by local communities who wish to have a say in their children's educational destiny, and who wish to exercise the same right to elect school boards which most citizens across New York State have historically exercised.

A release by the sponsors of the Friday afternoon panel discussion notes that "the New York State Legislature must vote on the school decentralization issue this session," and adds, "it is important for up-state legislators and citizens to be aware of the issues involved."

Area residents are invited to attend the discussion to be informed on the subject so as to be prepared to express their views based on facts to their assemblymen and senator.

Some facts in the sponsoring unit's release notes that the present 13-man school board in New York City controls 57,000 teachers and 1,000,000 students. City certification is required as well as state certification for teachers, thus most teachers are from the city colleges.

Backers of the Modified Sentinel Hope to Steal Attention From Foes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate backers of a modified missile defense program opened a traditionally closed committee hearing today in an apparent effort to steal public attention from opponents.

Sen. John Stennis, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said the antiballistic missile—ABM—project should be "fully explained to the American people" at the hearing on defense funds.

The Mississippi Democrat's action in opening testimony by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird to the public came as opponents expected two days of having center stage all to themselves.

The opposition forces had planned a barrage of criticism from the Senate floor today in preparation for Friday's nationally televised appearance before the Senate disarmament subcommittee.

The Armed Services Committee is heavily weighted with backers of the revised ABM that President Nixon called for last Friday.

The disarmament subcommittee, however, is weighted the other way with its chairman, Tennessee Democrat Albert Gore, an outspoken opponent of any ABM.

After Laird presented a general defense budget rundown behind closed doors Wednesday, Stennis said today's session was set aside to explore "the positive side" of the ABM.

But Laird touched on the Senate in the closed session when asking for $800 million to get construction started on the first two sites and to procure 10 more.

Laird, in what was the administration's initial presentation of its ABM case on Capitol Hill, said the new system is needed because of the growing nuclear threat from Communist China.

He said the revised ABM system is unmistakably defensive and "it will be deployed in a manner clearly related to the emerging threat."

Wilson, Lefkowitz To Seek Reelection

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson and Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz say that, despite any speculation to the contrary, they do intend to seek re-election next year.

The Republican office-holders declared their plans in separate interviews with The Associated Press.

Lefkowitz hedged just a bit saying "it is my present intention to run again." He said he was withholding a formal announcement until next January "to see how I feel then"—but added quickly, "I feel just fine about it right now."

Wilson said that he had been too busy to give much thought to the question but asserted that "I will run again if the party and the governor wants me to."

Last month, when Gov. Rockefeller re-emphasized his own intention of seeking a fourth term, he was asked whether Wilson and Lefkowitz would run with him again.

"Well, I sure hope so," he replied.

He added, however, that he had not sat down and talked over the prospect with his veteran running mates.

Lefkowitz and Wilson acknowledged that they had not discussed re-election plans with the governor, but both said they assumed their intentions were known to him.

There have been recurring reports in GOP circles that the 65-year-old attorney general had grown weary of his office and would call it quits in 1970.

"No truth to that," Lefkowitz said. "I'm enjoying this job as much as I ever did."

Hearing Slated by School Board May 6

A public hearing on next year's Saugerties Central School District budget will be held Tuesday, May 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the senior high school auditorium.

Elections for members of the Board of Education will be held the following day, Wednesday, May 7 at Main Street School.

Arrangements were announced at this week's meeting of the Board of Education. The terms of Arthur F. Simmons, president of the board; Anthony Rizzo and LeRoy Snyder expire this year. Those interested in filing nominating petitions for election to the three-year terms may file with the district clerk.

A request by Saugerties Teachers Association to defer the budget hearing to a later date was denied unanimously by the board members.

Candidates for the office must be qualified voters in the district, must be nominated by a petition signed by at least 25 qualified voters of the district, which must state the residence of each signer and the names and residences of the candidates; that the candidate is being nominated for a full term, and the specific office for which the candidate is nominated. The petition must be filed with District Clerk H. Elizabeth Ziegler, at the Administration Building on Hill Street not later than Tuesday, April 22.

Charles Emerick, legislative committee chairman for the board, and Superintendent of Schools Dr. Dexter A. Arnold, reported that educational groups including the New York State School Board Association, Ulster County School Boards Association, the Chief School Administrator Association, the New York State Teachers Association, the Parent-Teachers Association, the State Parent-Teachers Association, and principals' organizations, are deeply concerned with the possibility of cuts in state aid for 1969-70, as recommended by Governor Rockefeller.

Information available to them indicated that there is deep concern that legislators might approve state budget cuts which, in effect, would transfer a greater proportion of the costs of operating schools on the local property tax and diminish the state's responsibility. Board members expressed their concern that taxpayers were not aware of the effect on their local property tax rates and the urgency for those who do not wish this to take place to contact their state legislators immediately. Although the local budget is not complete, estimates of the effect on the local property tax indicated the importance of this situation to taxpayers.

The problem of standees in school buses has been a problem to parents and school authorities for some time. Under Public Service regulations, each school bus is marked to show its capacity in terms of seats and standees. In the face of increasing costs of transportation, the board voted to change its policy which has provided that no standees will be allowed in any school bus to a more lenient policy allowing standees in the school buses transporting pupils in grades seven through 12 within the limits of the stated bus capacity. The policy for pupils in grades kindergarten through six remains unchanged. Standees in the vehicles transporting these pupils will not be

Jaycees Slate Easter Egg Hunt

A committee of Saugerties Jaycees at a recent meeting made plans for the annual Easter egg hunt, April 5, at 11 a.m. was set, with a rain date of April 12.

This event is always a big hit with the youngsters ranging in age from 2 to 12. There will be approximately 5,000 eggs scattered over Cantine Field and the Easter Bunny will be there with prizes for the finders of lucky eggs.

The committee, headed by Art Craft of Mt. Marion will hold additional meetings to further plan the biggest and best egg hunt in Saugerties. Other committee members are, Ernie Braun, Steve Chase, Earl Langdon, and James Kiernan.

education Act, Federal funds amounting to $10,000 will be made available to the school district to improve the library situation at the Main Street School. With the completion of the Glasco School, libraries, or instructional resource centers as they are now called, will be available in all elementary schools except Main Street.

The board plans to remove a temporary partition between two rooms to provide an enlarged library area. Federal funds will be used for materials to equip the library. Plans call for all four elementary school libraries to be in operation next September. They will be served by the present two school librarians and two library aides.

Dr. Arnold has also been notified that the application to provide 25 cents additional reimbursement for each free school lunch served to needy children has been approved. This will provide substantial assistance to the school lunch program.

The superintendent reported that total enrollment within the schools reached a new peak as of February, of 4,153 pupils. Current school enrollments are: Senior High School—707; Junior High School—906; Main Street School—742; Glasco School—331; Mt. Marion School—665; Morse School—748; and Malden School—54.

The board adopted the school calendar for 1969-70 as recommended by the superintendent. Copies will be distributed to parents at a later date.

President Simmons reported that the Glasco School construction program is ahead of its schedule, that the Mt. Marion construction program is complete except for minor items, and that apparently a solution to the pump problem at the Morse School has been found.

Dr. Arnold apprised the board of a partial departmentalization of the fifth grades in the Morse School, incorporating a team approach to instruction. Principal Buonfiglio departmentalized the sixth grades in the Morse School last September and is pleased with the success of the project.

The superintendent reported that Miss May Evans, director of Pupil Personnel Services, has arranged an in-service course for a limited number of teachers. The course will be conducted by Dr. Joyce Bartlett, chief psychologist, Ulster County Mental Health Center, and is designed to meet the needs of teachers in finding new ways and means of dealing with children who may have mental health problems.

Mountain Airways Official at Meet

KINGSTON — Frank Bloom, president of Mountain Airways based at Aero Lake Airport in Port Ewen, attended a second meeting with officials of Kennedy Airport and commuter aircraft operators recently.

As a result of the meeting, confirmation of four instrument flight rule (IFR) movements was granted Mountain Airways. The session was called for officials of commuter airlines servicing the three major New York airports, in an effort to ease air-traffic in and out of Kennedy.

Final confirmations and guidelines for policing flying action were set up, so that any instrument slots abandoned due to lack of use would be in a position to be allocated to other airlines involved.

Mountain Airways presently schedules three flights and return to Kennedy Airport daily, and schedules flights each Tuesday and Thursday to Binghamton.

First Aid Device

Announcement has been made by Simulaid, Inc., of Woodstock of the development and availability of a spine and neck motion sensor, that teaches first aiders to apply a backboard without the serious excess movement of a patient's neck or back which too often occurs.

The sensor is a headpiece containing a battery, buzzer and micro switches with appendant cords. These cords are attached to a demonstrator's upper torso, and when there is excess motion to the "injured victim" it is immediately translated into a signal buzz, telling the first aider that he has permitted too much movement. The headpiece is adjustable.

DIABETES DINNER MAY 7 — The annual dinner meeting of Ulster Chapter, N. Y. Diabetes Association will be held May 7 at the Sky Top Restaurant. Plans for this event were formulated at recent meeting when Dr. Harold Zarowitz, president-elect of state association was guest speaker. Present at that session were (L) Harry Borbe, associate executive director of state association; Robert Begley, chairman of local chapter; Dr. Zarowitz and Bernard Sims, local vice-chairman. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Traveling Diabetic Advice Stressed by State Official

KINGSTON Association, spoke on the Traveling Diabetic topic and used the phrase "to the diabetic on a holiday it's vacation from work, not from diabetes." To avoid trouble, Dr. Zarowitz recommended the diabetic using oral medication and the insulin dependent followed in his home program — eating meals at the same time and avoiding tempting foods.

His other advice included checking with the patient's own physician relative to locale to be visited and the decision on the supplies needed to carry the diabetic at all times.

Election Results

Mrs. Hilda Davis was elected chairman during a brief business portion of the program. Others named were Titus B. Sims, vice-chairman; Mrs. Ruth Kuhns, treasurer; Mrs. Dorothea Blume, recording secretary and Mrs. Mary Page, corresponding secretary. They will take office in September.

Future plans of the local organization include the annual dinner meeting at the Sky Top Restaurant May 7, a bake sale April 26 at the Gov. Clinton Market, Broadway, and participation in the dedication of the Helen Friedman Hall at Camp Nyda on June 22. The local chapter also will participate in the annual Kingston Lions Club Exposition and Health Pavilion at the State Armory on Manor Avenue.

Dr. Harold Rifkin, president of the New York Diabetes Association will be the main speaker at the May 7 dinner. Tickets are now available. The April meeting of the local diabetes chapter has been cancelled.

Potholes: Annual Nuisance

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Ah, Spring. Birds are fluttering and Kingstonians are muttering, not about the birds, but about an annual source of irritation in the Colonial City . . . potholes.

The man on the other end of those irate telephone calls is Charles Cole, Kingston's superintendent of public works. The Freeman contacted Cole to endeavor to find out why the city has so many potholes and what Cole and the BPW are doing about it.

Cole was most cooperative in explaining his side of the story. He said, "As aggravating and as frustrating as it is to everyone the only consolation we can offer is that we'll patch the holes as quickly as possible and when the pothole season is over, we'll make permanent repairs."

Until the Thaw

The season, according to Cole, usually runs through mid-April, or when the ground thaws out.

The reasons for potholes are somewhat complex, according to Cole, with the spring thaw being the main culprit.

The pothole's life starts with the thaw that forces the ground under the road to expand, usually upwards. The force exerted, according to Cole, is "tremendous" and literally blows a hole in the pavement. What's left is a pothole which can be patched, with often the same results a few days later.

The patch applied is referred to as a cold winter mix, basically temporary in nature until a hot, summer mix can be applied as a more permanent repair.

The type of road is also a major factor in addition to the type of ground that road is laid upon. This brought into discussion the well-known Dix Seal controversy that was a hot topic between Cole and former Mayor John J. Schwenk several years ago.

Cole used it to prove a point on road types and soil conditions. "There is no cure-all road surface," Cole said. Dix Seal is an example. On some streets, Dix Seal (a Macadem-like coating laid over the surface of the road) works very well and I would highly recommend it for those particular streets. However, on some streets, it is worse than useless."

Cole mentioned Route 32 or The Boulevard as one of those streets where Dix Seal failed to live up to its promise. Coincidentally, The Freeman had received a number of Letters to the Editor about Route 32 and the numerous potholes therein.

'A' Type Road

"Route 32 is considered an

'A' type road," Cole said. "It has a solid base of concrete that has been paved over. Unfortunately, the forces of thawing under that road are particularly strong, resulting in numerous potholes."

It was pointed out that on the other side of the tracks, just outside the city line on Route 32, the road appears to be in perfect condition. Cole, in turn, pointed out that the State Department of Public Works did a major reconstruction of that section of Route 32 less than 10 years ago.

"In order to alleviate the pothole problem on our section of Route 32 we would have to do the same type of reconstruction as the state did," Cole said.

Which brought him to the crux of the problem, money. "There is virtually nothing that is impossible in modern engineering, if you are willing to spend the money," Cole said.

"We simply do not have the money."

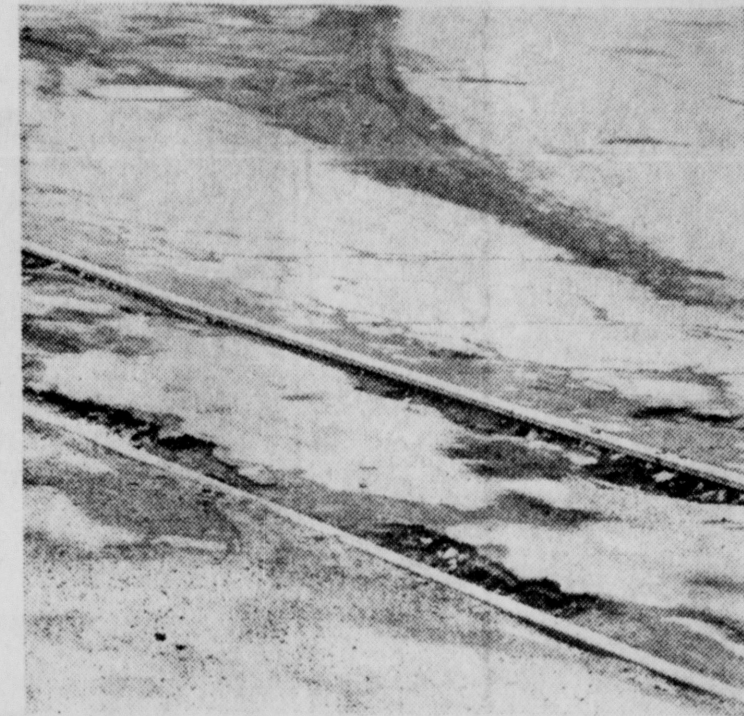

Full Time Crews

In lieu of sufficient money, Cole keeps two crews going full time fixing potholes. Cole says his roving patrols find most of the potholes in the city and phone calls from residents account for the rest.

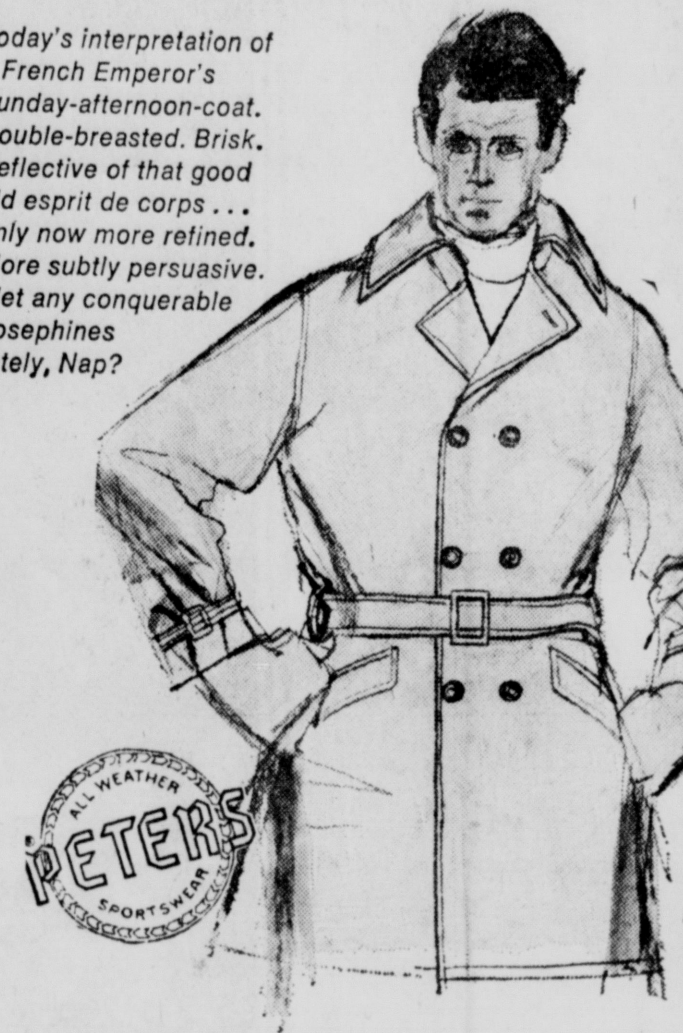

"We're doing the best job we can within the limitations of our budget," Cole says.

It is said that time heals all wounds. Cole and his patching crews, with the aid of time, expect to have Kingston's streets in good shape by late April.

As for next year, Cole sees basically more of the same. "Every city in the Hudson Valley is going through the same thing as we are in regards to those potholes," he said. "Until someone comes up with an inexpensive permanent seal, it's going to be the same for years to come. It's an act of nature."

Today's interpretation of a French Emperor's Sunday-afternoon-coat. Double-breasted. Brisk. Reflective of that good old esprit de corps . . . only now more refined. More subtly persuasive. Met any conquerable Josephines lately, Nap?

Three Views of Winter's Ravage in Kingston

The fourth view, on page one, is somewhat exaggerated but potholes are no laughing matter in Kingston, either with the residents or the people charged with fixing them. Three of the city's more pock-marked streets are shown in these Freeman photographs. On the left is a view of the Boulevard, one of the main thoroughfares leading to and from Kingston. The BPW gets complaints not only from Kingstonians on that road but from persons commuting to Kingston from the Southern Tier. On the right is a picture of a section of Wilbur Avenue, also a well-traveled road for those persons coming into the city from Eddyville and surrounding areas. Top right is a photo of potholes within railroad tracks, a double hazard near The Freeman offices Downtown. (Freeman photos by Kruh).

Expression's Origin

The expression, "hand in one's chips," which has come to mean dying, is probably derived from the practice in a poker game of turning in one's counters or chips at the end of the game; therefore, by analogy, the end of the game of life.

Kingston Hospital School of Nursing Holds Commencement

The nurse 10 years in the future will be able to sit at a console and read information from constant monitors of a patient's condition, Dr. Kurken Kirk told members of The Kingston Hospital School of Nursing graduating class at commencement exercises Saturday.

They must not forget, however, "the importance of a smile and personal attention," Dr. Kirk said. Adding emphasis to Dr. Kirk's remarks, Anthony R. Triulzi, hospital administrator, noted that the intensive care-cardiac care unit now being constructed at the Kingston Hospital will provide for a bank of cardiac monitoring machines, and that staff nurses are taking special training at Albany Medical Center to operate them.

Wilbur R. Peters, president of the hospital Board of Trustees, noted that this was the 72nd graduating exercise held by the school, beginning with a two-member class Aug. 1, 1897. The present class of 13 will be the second from last, as the school is being phased out.

The task of training young women to meet area demands for registered professional nurses is being taken over by the Ulster County Community College, with the Kingston Hospital cooperating by providing facilities and advisory personnel for the course.

Mrs. Rosemary Pellegrino, director of nursing, presented the school pins, and Peters presented diplomas to the graduates, who were:

Janet Burger, Karen Kent, Sharon Krasher, Louise Petersen, and Marilyn Wirths of Kingston; Margaret Andreassen, Nancy Davis and Linda Fuller of Saugerties; Carol Blaine, Cornwall; Catherine Hedges, Beacon; Patricia Truesdell, South Kortright; Barbara Wandzilak, Melrose and Judy Yates, Windham.

Awards were presented by Triulzi. The award winners were:

who has recognized her responsibilities as a citizen and a professional person; the Dr. Hamilton Boyd award of $25 to the student who excelled in management of labor and delivery room patients; $15 prize given by Ladies Auxiliary 130, United Commercial Travelers to the student who excelled in the theory and practice in the care of children; $20 prize given by Dr. Glenn Van Gaasbeek to the nurse who has shown the most interest, efficiency and professional growth in the post-anesthesia care of patients and special surgical experiences.

Noted Pianist to Address Woman's Club

A most entertaining and informative evening is being anticipated by members of the Woman's Club of Saugerties when the Club meets on Thursday March 27, at 8:15 p.m. at the Dutch Arms Chapel in Saugerties. Mrs. Thomas Zulick, chairman of the literature and music department has arranged for Mrs. Jane Tonnesen to address the Club. Mrs. Tonnesen will speak on the subject, "How Music Grew," and will show and explain the various eras of music: the Baroque, the Classic, the Romantic, the Impressionistic and the Modern Period. To illustrate, she will give examples at the piano.

Mrs. Tonnesen will accompany Mrs. VanVoorhis of Saugerties, who will play the Allegro of Mozart's Violin Sonata in A, and Mrs. Melissa Sweet, also of Saugerties, who will play the flute in Faure's Fantasia for Flute and Piano. The program will conclude with an ensemble of flute, dance, piano and narration of an original poem by Mrs. Eleanor DeWitt of Kingston, entitled "Harmony of Spring," to Saint-Saens' "Air de Ballet." Miss Agathe Snyder will perform the dance.

Mrs. Jane Tonnesen was born in the Rhine-Pfalz, Germany, and grew up in Stuttgart, Germany, where she had her formal education. At an early age, she chose music as her main interest and studied piano under Professor Dr. Else Jundt from the Strasbourg Conservatory. She also studied organ extensively with Oberkirchen Musikdirektor Helmuth Rothweiler and made her degree under the noted Professor Dr. Hermann Keller in Stuttgart. During the war years, Mrs. Tonnesen continued her music studies in Paris, France, and after coming to this country in 1946, she studied modern piano teaching techniques in New York City and in Woodstock under the guidance of pianist Isabelle Byman.

Mrs. Tonnesen maintains a permanent music studio in Mt. Marion, where she has been teaching piano and organ for the past 22 years. Her pupils give a yearly recital at the Saugerties High School Auditorium, as of late for the benefit of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society, of which Mrs. Tonnesen is a member of the Board of Directors.

Presently, Mrs. Tonnesen is president of the Kingston Musical Society, whose goal it is to promote interest in music and to enlarge the musical outlook of the members. She has been church organist for the past 22 years, first at the Mt. Marion Reformed Church for seven years, then at the Saugerties Methodist Church for 15 years. Mrs. Tonnesen was accompanist for the Kingston mixed "King's Chorus," and also for the "Lyric Choirists." She has performed as soloist at many benefit recitals in this area, at church concerts and as accompanist to soloists and string groups and mixed ensembles.

Performing with Mrs. Tonnesen will be Mrs. Marjorie Van Voorhis of Kingston. Mrs. Van Voorhis, violinist, graduated from the Crane School of Music, Potsdam State Teachers College, and has taught instrumental and vocal music in the Saugerties and Catskill public schools. She is at present the music teacher at the Chambers School in Kingston, and studies violin with Frank Mele, Woodstock. Mrs. Van Voorhis is a member of the Kingston Musical Society.

Mrs. Melissa Sweet has studied flute at Syracuse University and Eastman School of Music, Rochester. She played the flute with the Battle Creek Symphony, Michigan, and with the Monmouth Symphony, New Jersey. Presently she is a student of Claude Montoux and teaches flute privately at her home in Saugerties. Mrs. Sweet is also a member of the Kingston Musical Society.

Originally from Boston, Mrs. Eleanor DeWitt has studied voice and piano. She organized and directed the Boys' Choir of St. Michael's Episcopal Church at Brattleboro, Vermont. She was soprano soloist and director of choirs at Christ Church, Walton. Mrs. DeWitt is also a member of the Kingston Musical Society.

Miss Agatha Snyder, also from Kingston, has studied ballet with the late Alexis Kosloff. She too is a member of the Kingston Musical Society and at present is a teacher at St. Joseph's School in Kingston.

After Mrs. Tonnesen's presentation there will be a business meeting. At this time the list of nominees for 1969-70 officers will be offered by the nominations committee, and names of other candidates will be taken from the floor. The nominations committee will then prepare a ballot for use at the annual meeting in April.

No Food Will Either Cause or Cure Arthritis

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Just under 17 million persons suffer from arthritis in the United States. What part do foods, vitamins and cortisone play in the disease? "Nutrition plays an important role, but not in the way most people think. As far as is known today, no single food or combination of foods cause arthritis, nor can any food or combination of foods cure it," explains William S. Clark, M.D., national president of the Arthritis Foundation.

That medical statement will shock many sufferers, those, for example, who believe that eating meat causes an acid that triggers arthritis. Or that drinking special hard teas, or eating honey and vinegar, will cure them.

"These are the findings of long scientific research. Not charlatanism," Clark stresses.

There are two broad categories of the disease — rheumatoid arthritis and osteoarthritis. Rheumatoid arthritis is a chronic illness associated with inflammation of the joints, weakness and fatigue, loss of appetite and loss of weight. It has no age limit, often beginning when a person is very young.

"In the over-all treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, however, nutrition is important," he states. "Many patients suffer from malnutrition. Either because of lack of knowledge, lack of money, or pain, they neglect their diet. They forget or have no interest in the fact that their bodies must be sustained daily by nutritious foods."

Many rheumatoid patients suffer anemia. But often simply feeding them iron does not cure it.

anemia may be more related to poor nutrition than to a simple iron deficiency," Clark explains, adding:

"In the past 20 years there has been a general improvement in treatment of arthritis patients in hospitals. They now get comprehensive care. The purpose is to get patients back to being selfsupporting, if possible, to get them into the main stream of life, even though their arthritis continues. But they will have better understanding of how to treat it at home."

They are taught a new work timetable — periods of work and rest, sit down, then work, then rest, then work again. They are taught to eat enough food. They are urged to do special exercises, either alone, if possible, or under guidance of a physical therapist. In general, this modern treatment involves the whole person, not just those parts afflicted with the disease.

Osteoarthritis, on the other hand, is often called a wear-and-tear disease. It occurs with increasing frequency as people grow older. The damage is confined to the joints and surrounding tissues, but there is little or no inflammation. Limitation of normal motion sometimes does occur.

"Overweight is a problem here. The more pounds of pressure on the joints, the greater the pain. That is why losing weight is important," Clark says.

A former staff physician at Massachusetts General Hospital, and before joining the Arthritis Foundation the director of medical care of the National Foundation, Clark is relatively optimistic about an ultimate understanding of the causes and cure of arthritis.

"Rheumatoid arthritis is not a matter of vitamin deficiency of any kind," he reports, "but a poor diet may cause a lack of some vitamins. In that case, the doctor, not a neighbor nor a door-to-door salesman, can recommend certain vitamin supplements, not to cure arthritis but to supplement an inadequate food intake."

As to cortisone, Clark says it is rarely discussed now by experts in the management of arthritis. The benefits to most patients are slight and temporary and too often they become dependent on it.

"But though I was one of the first to caution in unequivocal terms against its uncontrolled use, I would not want to do without it in certain situations," he admits. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Happy Marriage? You Must Battle for It

By DICK KLEINER

West Coast Correspondent

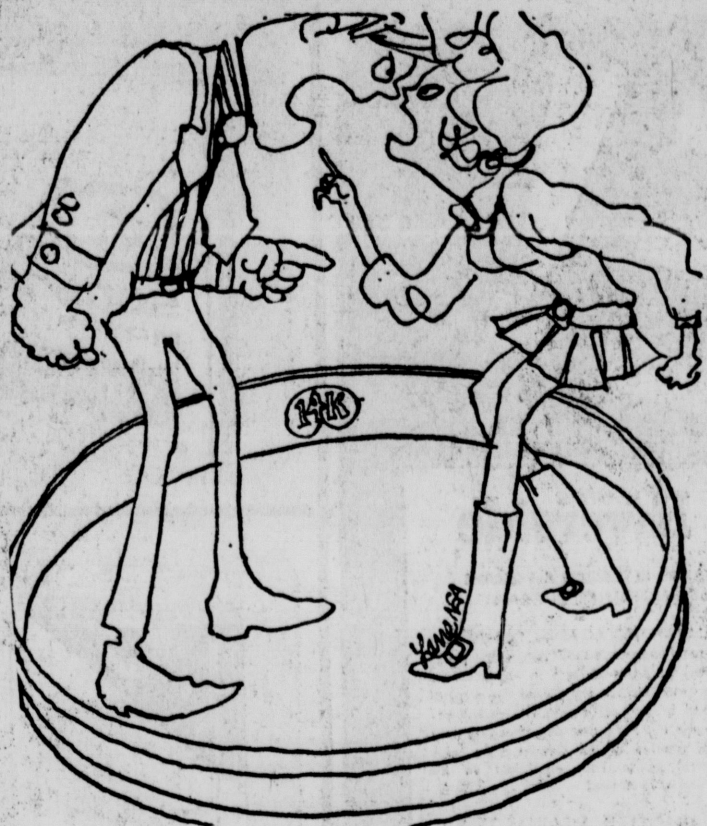

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — (NEA) — Everybody agrees that this is a violent age, but not everybody agrees on what to do about it. One novel theory is that of psychologist Dr. George R. Bach — he thinks what we need is more fighting in the home, and then maybe there would be less outside.

Bach is a household hawk. He advocates that husbands and wives fight — often — to maintain a happy marriage.

"A happy marriage," he says, "is a turbulent marriage."

He believes that fighting clears the air and achieves an atmosphere of intimacy and emotional involvement that cannot be obtained any other way. Furthermore, he says that people who avoid fights — those who seek peace at any price — may have mutually boring lives which can lead to infidelity and divorce.

Bach is a bouncy, little, white-haired man given to bright sports clothes, who runs the Institute of Group Psychotherapy here. He himself has had a long and happily turbulent marriage.

He has written his theories in a book, "The Intimate Enemy," but he has since gone beyond the book with some newer ideas.

One of these is that it's just as sensible to have some good fights before marriage — during courtship — as it is later on.

In fact, he has had a series of workshops for young singles, designed to teach them how to fight. One of his theories is that plain fighting isn't enough; you have to fight according to rules so that the battle is clean and evenly matched.

"During the average courtship," Bach says, "the two people can each other. They put on false fronts. They tell each other their life stories, generally tailored for the occasion."

"It would be much better if, instead, they had fights. They would learn much more about each other that way."

Bach says that computer matchmaking is not satisfactory for many reasons, but that a couple of good fights will let people know more about themselves than even the most sophisticated computer.

"Good relationships," he says, "are not based simply on personality match-ups. There's a lot more to it than that."

He even has worked out certain exercises for singles to use in what he calls "non-verbal communication," so that they can learn about each other without saying a word.

These include such things as one partner trying to push the other against a wall, or one partner falling and the other catching him (to learn trust), or one he calls "The Diane Crump" in honor of the first female jockey, which has the girl riding the boy around the room like a horse.

Later on, they should fight verbally. These exercises are simply preliminaries to word fights, which are the most revealing.

Bach says that hippies, since they like to avoid any hassle, are unable to establish meaningful permanent relationships. They are only capable of what he calls "romantic trips."

"A romantic attachment," he says, "lasts on the average five months and nine days. After that, a more lasting interpersonal relationship has to develop — or else it's all over."

Pick Bruins for 3rd Straight Title

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The era of Lew Alcindor at UCLA, unmatched in the history of college basketball, ends this week in Louisville where the Bruins are favored to win an unprecedented third straight national title.

The 7-foot-1½ agile giant is the main reason the Bruins are favored to turn back Drake Thursday night and take the championship Saturday. After that he's assured big money from the professionals as the No. 1 target of both major leagues.

The incredible collegiate era of Ferdinand Lewis Alcindor Jr. was heralded at a 1965 news conference in New York when he announced he would enroll at UCLA.

"It has the atmosphere I wanted and the people out there were so nice to me," he said, UCLA dedicated its new Pauley Pavilion on Nov. 30, with a varsity versus freshman game. The varsity the previous year had won its second straight national college title. The frosh had Alcindor.

He hauled down 21 rebounds, scored 31 points and the yearlings won 75-60.

During an unbeaten freshman season, Alcindor was shielded from the press. The same has been true during much of his career.

Coach John Wooden knew the consequences of having such a superstar, explaining, "There are others on the team, too. I was concerned about how the other players would feel."

In Alcindor's sophomore year UCLA had a 30-0 record won the national title and he won player-of-the-year honors.

An eye injury during January of his junior year hampered his effectiveness for a few games, including a 71-69 loss to Houston in the Astrodome, the first defeat of the Alcindor era after 47 victories.

UCLA avenged the loss with a 101-69 shelling of Houston and Elvin Hayes in the semifinals of the NCAA tournament and then beat North Carolina for its second straight title.

Over 86 games, Lew has scored 2,263 points for an average of 26.3. He has grabbed 1,326 rebounds.

"He's stronger this year and he's able to do more things," said Wooden of the player he always calls Lewis.

"The fact that he is not a selfish individual has helped us. He dedicates himself to the total effort of the team. I think all players want to do well individually, but I think he's more concerned about the overall effort of the team, figuring he can help without necessarily scoring."

Currently Lew is asked if he'd like to attend graduate schools at Yale or Harvard. He's reportedly been offered a million dollar contract to play for the Harlem Globetrotters. He is a history major who may someday teach.

Right now, says Alcindor, "Winning the title is the only thing."

Robinson Boys Rolling

(By United Press International) — R&R doesn't mean rest and rehabilitation with the Baltimore Orioles. It means those robust run-producers Brooks and Frank Robinson are on another rampage.

Manager Earl Weaver was sure of Brooks all along, but had to wait on Frank, who injured his eye two years ago and had not been bashing distance fences as he used to.

The Robinson act continued to wow the audiences Wednesday. The pair accounted for seven runs with home runs.

Brooks hit a grand slam in the first inning after Pedro Ramos had walked three Orioles, and Frank connected with one on in the third off the Pittsburgh starter. Baltimore made the most of the Robinson slugfest to beat the Pirates 8-5.

With Frank Robinson back on the beam, the Orioles become a threat to win the American League pennant for the second time in four years. They clicked in 1966.

The Detroit Tigers, 1968 A.L. champs, suffered their first blow of 1969 when catcher Bill Freehan's nose was broken by a thrown ball Wednesday while he was taking extra batting practice at Lakeland, Fla. The Tigers were at Tampa, where they dropped a 4-3 decision to the Cincinnati Reds with the help of three Detroit errors.

St. Louis, the National League champion, wasn't treated too kindly either. The Los Angeles Dodgers' Bill Singer and Claude Osteen combined for a 3-0 shutout. Triples by Len Gabrielson and rookie Bill Russell in the third inning did the damage.

Big Gaylor Perry pitched the San Francisco Giants to a 9-4 Cactus League triumph over the Seattle Pilots. Willie McCovey and Bobby Bonds backed Perry's performance—his third fourth in the ninth inning. The Chicago Cubs halted Cleveland's nine-game winning streak. Chicago gave up six runs in the first inning but then rallied for a 10-9 triumph. Rich Nye helped his own pitching cause with a two-run homer.

Around the circuit: The Boston Red Sox scored seven runs on Don Wilson in the victory of the exhibition season Atlanta...singles by Walt Williams and Tommy McCraw highlighted a four-run ninth that gave the Chicago White Sox a 5-1 verdict over Kansas City...and the California Angels beat the San Diego Padres 6-5 when a walk to Jay Johnstone forced Vic Davalillo home with the winning run in the ninth inning.

Record-Bent Bruins Chasing Canadiens

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Jacques Lemaire scored twice for Montreal and Rogation Vachon kicked out 42 Chicago shots as the Black Hawks sank deeper in the East Division cellar.

The Canadiens shut out Bobby Hull, who was seeking to score a record-equalling 54th goal. Bobby Rousseau, Ralph Backstrom and Dick Duff scored the other Canadiens' goals while Stan Mikita and Pit Martin clicked for Chicago.

Jean Ratelle assisted on all four New York goals and Rod Gilbert had the Rangers tripped Minnesota and opened a five-point bulge over Toronto in the battle for third place.

PLAYER OF THE YEAR—Lew Alcindor (above) of UCLA was awarded the first Naismith Trophy as the UPI College Player of the Year. Simultaneously, the Milwaukee Bucks of the NBA won the right to bid for his services. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Lew Alcindor To Milwaukee

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Lew who? With or without Lew Alcindor, Wednesday was Milwaukee's day in the National Basketball Association.

In a special coin toss with Phoenix, the Bucks won the draft rights to UCLA's All-American 7-foot-1½ center. But Alcindor didn't score a point or grab a rebound as the Bucks downed the Suns 117-110 in a game between the NBA's Eastern and Western cellar-dwellers.

Elsewhere, New York prevented Baltimore from clinching the Eastern Division title 104-100. Philadelphia stayed in the running with a 136-115 triumph over Seattle. Boston virtually ended Chicago's playoff chances 104-92 and Cincinnati took Los Angeles 136-128 in overtime.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky walloped Denver 131-106. New Orleans crushed Minnesota 134-106. Houston beat Dallas 130-121 and Los Angeles beat Oakland 143-136.

"We lost," said Richard Block, president of the Phoenix Suns, after losing the Alcindor coin flip, and that about sums up the Suns' day.

Repeated rallies fell short in Phoenix' loss to Milwaukee on the court, despite Dick Van Arsdale's 32 points. Jon McGlocklin led the Bucks with 26 points.

New York prevented Baltimore from clinching its first regular season championship behind Willis Reed's 37 points. With three games left, the Bulls lead Philadelphia by 2½ games. The 76ers are 1½ games in front of the Knicks.

Reed scored 12 points in a 22-10 fourth-quarter burst that sent the Knicks ahead 103-93 after they trailed most of the game. Kevin Loughery paced the Bulls with 30. One Baltimore victory or one Philadelphia defeat will do it.

"We figure we have to win one game," said Baltimore Coach Gene Shue. "I'm proud of my team. I'm so pleased with my players it's unbelievable."

Hal Greer led Philadelphia past Seattle with 34 points. The 76ers jumped to a 10-2 lead and the SuperSonics never got closer than five points.

Philadelphia's Chet Walker and Seattle's Tom Meschery were ejected after a fight and police had to prevent them from resuming in a hallway leading to the dressing rooms.

Boston, leading by 75-71, exploded for 11 straight points in 2½ minutes and whipped Chicago. The loss means the Bulls can do no better than tie San Diego for the fourth and last playoff berth in the West. Bailey Howell sparked the Celtics with 27 points.

TIANO'S TOPICS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Mike Ferraro batted a hefty .473 through his first 19 times at bat for the expansion Seattle Pilots of the American League. He had three triples among his nine hits and was fielding in exemplary fashion.

The Kingston-based third base aspirant has had only one bad fielding lapse this spring and it led to six unearned runs and a defeat for the Pilots. Aside from that he has been solid with the glove.

Despite Mike's commendable showing, the United Press-International baseball writer at Tempe, Arizona, reports that Manager Joe Schultz has made up his mind to go with Rich Rollins, the ex-Minnesota Twin, at third base.

Rollins and Tommy Davis are the highest salaried players on the Seattle roster. Ergo, Schultz's decision to stick with the ex-Twin slugger until the situation warrants a change.

Although the starting quartet named by Schultz has a composite batting average of .199, the Pilots skipper is predicting a third place finish in the Western Division.

"Some people think I'm crazy," Schultz told the UPI man. "but I think we have a better ball club than the White Sox, California Angels and Kansas City Royals."

The boys who set the odds in Las Vegas don't share Schultz's enthusiasm for the Pilots. They rate them even with the Royals at 200 to 1. Oakland is tabbed the favorite at 2-1, with Minnesota, Chicago and California bunched at 3-1, take your pick.

Schultz's optimism is based on what he says is a "fine infield." It has Don Mincher (.236) at first; Chico Salmon (.214), second; Rollins (.214) third and Ray Oyler (.135) at shortstop.

Ex-Dodger star Tommy Davis, who batted .268 for the White Sox in 1968, anchors the outfield. Battling for catching spots are Jerry McNertny (.219) of the White Sox; Larry Haney (.236 at Baltimore) and Federico Velazquez (.257 at Birmingham.)

Garv Bell (11-11 with the Boston Red Sox) looks like the No. 1 pitcher. Sore-armed Steve Barner (6-5 Yankees, 1-4 Syracuse) could be the No. 2 man, if his arm comes around.

The Pilots are also looking at former Yankees—Bill Stafford and Roland Sheldon, the last time around for both of these lads. Jim Bouton, who has picked up a knuckleball since departing the Yankees, is rated a good chance of making the team.

Let's not say Schultz is crazy picking the Pilots for third place. Let's just say he must be smoking things you can't buy at your favorite cigar counter.

If I had been involved in picking the All-DUSO, I would have awarded Werner Kohn at least a second team berth.

INCIDENTALLY, IT'S THAT time of the year when the Ferraro-watchers start crawling out of the woodwork with their trusty anonymous pens and faceless typewriters.

It's open season on the young man who has a chance to become Kingston's first major league representative in 50 years. Ethnic prejudice, one of man's basest emotions, figures largely in the communications sent out by these night riders.

Their comments are hardly designed to ennoble the language. And we have to wonder what these poor, miserable globs of proslap see when they look into their bathroom mirrors.

WHERE ARE THEY GOING department: Onteora's Paul Pettinato heading for Cobleskill Tech . . . Werner Kohn of Kingston High pondering offers from Tufts, Bucknell and Worcester Poly . . . Gene Bruno, laid low by injuries and illness for half the season, has had a tour of the West Point Campus and also could land at either Albany State or St. Lawrence University.

We hear tell that Buddy Smith is ready to toss it in after 20 years as Saugerties High basketball coach . . . When, of course, the Sawyer brass can find a suitable replacement. Is Coach Vin Dutkowski of Our Lady of Lourdes about to make a move? . . . The names of Bill DuBois and Jerry Hawkins keep cropping up in speculation about area basketball changes . . . Is the cross country team of one area junior college ineligible for 1969 competition, because of a simple clerical error in 1968? Like failing to register the 1968 team roster?

THE UCAL COACHES didn't designate a Coach of the Year in the county conference. So we'll name him—Rod Patrick of the championship Onteora Central Indians.

Patrick not only piloted the Boiceville squad to the UCAL title in his first season as varsity coach. But he earned the respect of the coaching fraternity and knowledgeable basketball observers. A bright, new name in our midst.

Don't laugh at the .200 hitter. If he gets up around .250 he's got one foot in the Hall of Fame by modern standards.

UCCCC Needs Two Pitchers

Like baseball coaches all over the landscape, Al DiBernardo of Ulster County Community College is plagued by that old bugaboo. He needs and is hoping for pitching in large quantities for his 1969 Senators.

There are six lettermen returning to the baseball varsity but only one is a pitcher—Charlie Moore, the former Onteora Central High School star.

"With Moore the only experienced pitcher we have on the team, it's easy to see what our big problem is," said the youthful mentor. "Our opening game is April 7 against Dutchess Community and that doesn't give us too much time to get ready."

Robert Morris Captures Opener

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (UPI) — Unbeaten Robert Morris of Pittsburgh, Pa., moved into the second round of the 25th annual National Junior College basketball championships Wednesday with a hard-earned 88-83 victory over Gardner-Webb of Bowling Springs, N.C.

Bervard of Cocoa, Fla., met Vincennes, Ind., in the eighth and final first-round game of the 16-team tournament, which opened with six games Tuesday.

Robert Morris took a 45-38 halftime lead but needed clutch free throw shooting in the closing minutes after the Bulldogs from North Carolina gained a 79-79 tie with 3:45 remaining.

A pair of free throws by Cleveland Edwards in the final minute sealed the Colonials 28th victory.

DiBernardo feels the Senators will need at least three good starters to handle the 1969 schedule. He is hopeful that John Arbogast, formerly of Ellenville High, and Mickey Bush, like Moore an ex-Onteora performer, will make the grade.

Besides Moore, the other returning lettermen are shortstop Mike Derrenbacher and four outfielders—Ron Valle, Bill Boines, Charlie Lay and Bill Ziemer.

Three of DiBernardo's best new prospects are Gary Schatzel, a first baseman who played at Kingston High; Mike Mulkins, a third baseman from Pawling High and Mike Patrick, a second baseman and footballer at Onteora High.

Mulkins is a left handed batter and DiBernardo feels he could be one of the team's top hitters.

The catcher will be Larry Tripoddo of Schenectady, who has just completed the basketball season.

There are two other outfield candidates on the squad—Ed Watzka of Kingston High and Jerry Rosensewig of New York City.

A pre-season starting lineup would probably shape up something like this: Moore and Tripoddo as the opening battery; Schatzel, 1b; Patrick, 2b; Mulkins, 3b; and Derrenbacher at short. The outfield trio would be Boines, Ziemer and Lay.

But DiBernardo declines to name a starting lineup at this stage. "We'll need several more workouts before I decide on a starting lineup," he insists.

The team has had indoor drills in the gymnasium at the Marbletown school.

The Senators have booked a 14-game regular slate, in addition to the Inter-Regionals at Farmingdale, May 8-10 and the Northern District Playoffs in Region III on May 17-18.

Clarkstown, Savino's Hudson Valley Winners

POUGHKEEPSIE The Young Ones, an all-Dutchess County Community College array, scared the talent-laden Savino's Apparel before bowing to them 69-65, in a first round game in the Poughkeepsie YMCA-Hudson Valley basketball tournament here Wednesday night.

In the other game, a flashy Clarkstown squad crushed D&D Market of Poughkeepsie, an all-high school aggregation, 112 to 45.

Savino's ground out a 35-32 halftime lead and to battle for their lives after recess. Little Ed Sweeney's jump shots from 15-18 feet out accounted for 27 points and kept Young Ones in the ball game. Tom Royce, Dutchess' top scorer, rimmed 15 points.

John Osborne led Savino's with 25 points but two high priced imports—Bill Corley (10) and Hank Pedro (16) of the Harlem Wizards could account for only 26 points between them.

Young Ones led 46-45 when halftime lead and to battle for their lives after recess.

Clarkstown bolted to a 45-11 halftime lead then routed D&D 67-24 after the recess. Four of the Clarkstown cagers soared over the 20-point mark. Paul Toscani of Wyoming State led with 28. Manny Lawrence hit 20. Al Brenner 26 and Al Orlando 22.

Rocky Veronesi paced D&D with nine points.

The schedule resumes Monday with St. Andrews Bishops of Yonkers playing Paddock Chargers at 7:15 p. m. and Wiley's taking on top-seeded Pine Plains at 8:15 p. m.

Aero Lake of Kingston makes its tournament debut against Savino's next Wednesday night.

Simpson Can Be Had for 400Gs

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The president of the Orlando Panthers says O.J. Simpson has offered to play for his Continental Football League team for $400,000, and the Panthers think that's a fair price to pay Orange Juice to promote the Sunshine state's favorite beverage.

"O.J. and his agent approached Jim Dunn, the Continental League commissioner, two weeks ago and offered to play for $400,000 if O.J.'s negotiations with the Buffalo Bills fell through," said Elmer Cook, Panthers president.

"We went to the Florida Citrus commission and asked them to put up the money, since it was a natural promotional bit to go along with their slogan—Drink O.J.," Cook explained. The Citrus Commission seemed quite warm to the proposal, Cook said, figuring that a specimen of manhood like the ex-Southern California running back would do as much to up the sale of orange juice as all the vitamin-C put together.

At present, Simpson is committed to contract negotiations with the Bills of the American Football League, and cannot legally play for any other AFL or National Football League team if he fails to reach a contract with the Bills.

Coach Rienzo Has Optimistic Feeling About KHS

By MORT LAFFIN
KINGSTON
Mike Rienzo, Kingston High school baseball coach, is feeling very optimistic (isn't everyone?), about his team's chances for the coming season. The Maroons, runners-up to Newburgh in the DUSO League last year, have a plethora of unknown quantities, particularly in the departments of hitting and pitching.

Actually, Mike isn't trying to cover anything up, nor is he afraid to go out on the limb. He just doesn't know. Graduation hurt the Kingston nine last year.

Charles "Jesse" Janes, the best moundsman for Kingston and one of the top hurlers in the league, won't be back. Neither will Gary Schatzel, hard-hitting first baseman, Jeff Perry, Ray Lindhorst, Jerry Corrado and Andy Murphy III, all men were starters from last year's 7-5-3 squad.

One of the bright spots for Shift Super Bowl To New Orleans

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—The Super Bowl is moving from Miami to New Orleans.

The Louisiana city was selected over Miami Wednesday by the owners of the 26 pro football teams as the site of the 1970 Super Bowl Game.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said the selection would maintain the balance between National Football League and American Football League cities.

Los Angeles, an NFL city, hosted the first Super Bowl in 1966. Miami of the AFL has had it for the past two years.

Rozelle said a majority of the owners swung to New Orleans because the NFL Saints averaged crowds of 75,000 at home last season. The Saints play their home games in the Tulane University Stadium, which has an 81,000 capacity.

The vote was not disclosed but the commissioner indicated it was not unanimous.

It took a vote of at least 13 of the 16 NFL owners and 8 of the 10 AFL owners to make the switch from Miami.

Wednesday's decision was the first major action taken in the five-day meeting, which will end Friday.

A joint committee of six owners—three from each league—Monday adopted a proposal for the retention of the AFL and NFL as separate entities with interleague games.

But there has been opposition by some of the AFL owners, who want complete realignment.

Television negotiations are stalled until the question is settled.

the locals is the return of Greg Rios at shortstop. Rios is regarded by many to be one of the top prospects in the area. He was an All-DUSO selection at his position last year and was the club's leading hitter with a .333 batting average.

Helmich Returns
Also returning for Rienzo's nine is pitcher Pete Helmich. Helmich had a 5-1 record last season and figures to be the club's number one hurler. But, right now, he is one of the unknown quantities. Pete has a pulled muscle in his right shoulder and will be out for two to three weeks.

Coach Rienzo said: "Pete has to be at his best if we are to be in contention. If he is OK, then we will be better off. However, we will have to be strong in the number two and three pitching positions to win the title."

Ken Gilligan, Nick Ascenzo, Mike Milano and Robert Cole, up from the junior varsity, are counted on to supply the back-up hurling for Helmich. If Pete can't go, one of these boys will be the mainstay of the staff.

Another of the unknowns is the catcher, but here the problem seems to be one most coaches would relish. John Berardi, Harry Lyons and Rick Sorensen are all vying for the position. At this writing, the nod would seem to go to Berardi, who appears to have all the tools. But Lyons, who hit .300 last year and Sorensen, who is also pretty good with the stick can't be counted out.

May Play Outfield
"Lyons may end up in the outfield and Sorensen can also play first base, one of our open positions," said Rienzo. It looks from here that Mike could have his prospects would be Rienzo traded with the Atlanta Braves stated:

My last question to Mike concerned whether or not he wanted to improve in any one specific area over last year. His answer was:

"We left a lot of men on base last year, couldn't get them across. This season, we seem to have more speed and foot and may have a tendency to run more. Of course, I am going to start as many hitters as I can."

Kingston opens the season away April 11, in a non-league encounter with the Admirals of Arlington.

Anybody want to trade a .300 plus slugger, who runs the 100-yard dash in 9.0 seconds, plays all positions and can pitch alternate days with either hand?

Southampton Gives Wood Scholarship

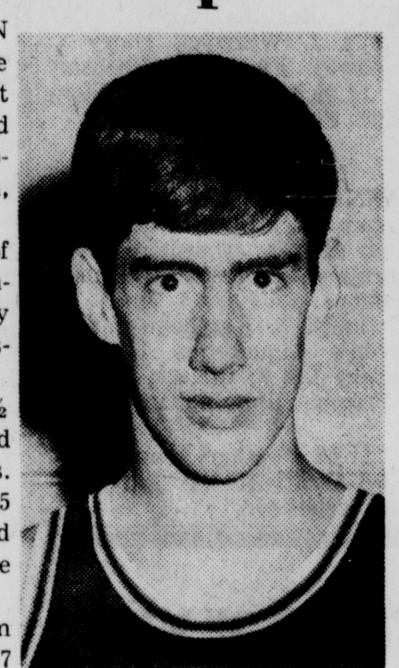

KINGSTON
Ted Wood, who played three years of varsity basketball at Kingston High, has been granted a full scholarship at Southampton College at Southampton, L. I.

Wood's receipt and return of his letter of intent to Southampton has been confirmed by Coach Jack Gilligan of Kingston.

Wood, a strapping 6 ft., 6½ in., 200-pound forward, played in all of Kingston's 18 games. He collected 241 points, with 55 per cent accuracy from the field and 67 per cent from the free throw line.

In addition, he led the team in rebounds with 190 for a 10.7 average. He is the first player on the 1966-67 Maroon varsity to receive a grant in aid from a four-year college.

Southampton College, a member of the Long Island University complex, is six-years-old and has turned out consistently fine basketball teams. It compiled a 16-5 record for the 1967-68 season and 19-4 record this past season. It lost to Monmouth

CONVICTED — In a speedy nonjury trial, millionaire gun collector William E. Thoresen III and his wife Louise were convicted in Fresno, Calif. of violating the federal firearms act. The trial took a surprise turn earlier when Thoresen, son of the president of Great Western Steel Co., of Chicago, and his wife waived a jury trial. The trial, which has been delayed for nearly two years, stems from the April 1967 raid on the Thoresen's San Francisco mansion where federal agents uncovered a huge cache of weapons, including machine guns and a bazooka and cannons. Dear Abby

Cuddling Mom-in-law

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune - N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I've got mother-in-law trouble — but not the kind you usually hear about. I am 33 and my mother-in-law is 45, and a real swinging divorcee. She's the kissy type, always kissing me hello and good-bye, even when I'm going into the next room.

If I sit down, Maureen (that's her name) is on my lap in two seconds. She's always wanting me to dance with her, and when she cuddles up, her instincts are anything but maternal.

My wife doesn't even notice, and thinks it's great that her mother likes me so much. Abby, it's gotten so I dread being left alone with Maureen. How can I chill her without making an issue of it?

A SON-IN-LAW
DEAR SON-IN-LAW: First start calling her "Mother" instead of Maureen. Then tell her you don't feel like dancing, and she's too heavy to hold on your lap. If she's still in your hair, you must be doing something wrong. I've yet to meet a 33-year-old man who couldn't run faster than his mother-in-law.

DEAR ABBY: I have never told my troubles to anyone before, but I think it would help me to unburden myself. I have been married for 42 years and have three wonderful married children. This is my complaint:

My hubby has retired and he stays home all the time now. He is forever changing everything around in my household, and I am going crazy trying to find things. If I say anything to him about it, well, Abby, you never heard such foul language. Then he will get angry at me and won't speak to me for days. I don't mind that, but he slams doors and pulls out drawers until I think I will lose my mind.

I am a nervous wreck. I have always looked forward to growing old gracefully. Not being frightened to death by a raving maniac. What can I do?

MISERABLE
DEAR MISERABLE: Your husband sounds like a sick man. Tell your story to one of your three wonderful married children and ask them to help you get their father to a doctor for a check up. It's not unusual for a retired man to make his presence felt around the house, but your man is overdoing it.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this for "WEAK TUMMY" who gets "sick" to her stomach at the thought of eating at a relative's house where the dishes are washed in the same sink the baby is bathed in.

I am 13, and I still remember taking baths in the kitchen sink. It was great fun! I want to add that my mother is probably the cleanest woman alive.

Truthfully, ANDREE

DEAR ABBY: When our

twins arrived, shortly after World War II, the only place we could find to rent was a three-room apartment with a shower — no tub. Luckily we had a double sink in the kitchen, and that's where I bathed the babies for a year. (I fastened one on the drainboard by her diaper while I bathed the other one.)

If I had any concern about "germs," it was that the babies be free from contamination. I scrubbed the sink very well BEFORE and AFTER each baby bath, and if our guests ever threw up after eating here I never knew about it.

STILL HEALTHY

Bridge

West Arises to the Occasion

By Oswald & James Jacoby

While bidding has improved tremendously in contract so that the good player of today bids better than the greatest experts of the late '20s and early '30s, there has been far less improvement in the play. The expert of those days would play almost as well as the expert of today and far better than the good player.

There have been many improvements in defense with different opening leads and new signals but the standard plays of the old days are still standard plays today.

One of the most unusual standard plays is the unnecessary finesse taken by declarer to give himself an extra entry to dummy. If it fails, declarer has lost both the entry to dummy and a trick.

The unnecessary finesse can be blocked by a second hand high play but it is rare indeed for a defender to recognize it and rise to the occasion.

South reached seven hearts after a typical 1930 bidding sequence. He started quickly by winning the spade lead in dummy and taking a successful trump finesse. Unfortunately, West showed out.

South needed two more entries to dummy if he wanted to make his grand slam. After long thought, he saw that the diamonds would produce them and he led his six of diamonds.

Raymond Balf, one of the great auction players and a good man at contract, huddled. He knew South had some problem and finally decided that it was the need for an extra entry to dummy.

Once that decision was made,

Why We Say

CURFEW

COVER THE FIRE: In the Middle Ages in France authorities wanted to control the people. They instituted a system of ringing a bell at night as a signal to cover or extinguish household fires. With the fires out in the cold weather, little activity continued. "Cover the fire" in Old French was "couvrir le feu," which turned into our English word curfew.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

"I didn't know the gun was loaded!" was the lament of many children and adults involved in the estimated 2,800 accidental deaths due to firearms in 1967. The World Almanac says. Mark Twain said "unloaded" guns are the most deadly and unerring things created by man and "A youth who can't hit a cathedral at 30 yards with a Gatling gun in three-fourths of an hour, can take up an old empty musket and bag his grandmother every time, at a 100."

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

PICKUP: (Q.) In today's terms what is a pickup? Is it wrong to stop and talk to a boy you don't know when he's in a car on the street?—A Teen Reader in Newport News, Va.

(A.) A pickup is a pickup in 1969 just as it was in 1940 and just as it will be in 1980. You are a pickup if you are picked up by a boy who hasn't properly asked you for a date. He can pick you up in a car or you can walk off with him after an unarranged meeting on the street. Either way you are a pickup. This is especially true if you have never met him before.

It is dangerous for a girl to stop and talk to a strange boy or boys in a car.

GOOFY CALL: (Q.) I've seen this boy at a few dances. He goes to a different school, so I don't see him regularly. He's 16 and I am, too, and I adore him. I think he liked me, too—until—well, one day I had this goofy urge to call him up just to see for sure where he lived. He had never called me.

His dad answered and asked who I was. I gave a name similar to mine. I'm sure my friend figured out who it was. I feel terrible. If I see him at a dance should I confess and say I'm sorry, or deny it? I'll never do it again.—Sorry in California.

(A.) Confess and apologize. From now on remember these telephone rules for a smart girl to live by:

(1) Don't make a phone call to anyone unless you have a good reason to and have something important to say.

(2) Don't call a boy unless there is an urgent, specific reason.

(3) Never make a call planning to hang up or lie about your name if someone unexpected answers.

(4) When you do complete a call, be courteous enough to leave your name and number if the person you aren't there.

(5) Never talk on the phone more than 15 minutes.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Fashions: Old, Now, Future

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—NBC-TV this week presented "The Wonderful World of Pizzazz," a lighthearted, hour-long musical-comedy commentary on fashions of the past, present and future.

And one of the things most immediately noticeable was that the male designers of some of the world's most way-out fashions invariably dressed themselves—jackets, ties, etc.

Or, as P. T. Barnum once noted, and as John Q. Public continues to prove, there is indeed a sucker born every minute. It's just that they're better-dressed nowadays. Check That. Make it: More flashily dressed.

Designers Well Dressed I thought, in fact, that such designers as Pierre Cardin and Emanuel Ungaro of Paris; Bill Blass and Oscar de la Renta of New York, and Hardy Amies of London were far more tastefully, and admirably, dressed than some of their models.

Above all, their beautifully tailored conservative suits—and the handsomely colorful shirt-and-tie combinations worn by some of the sportily dressed designers—showed how past and present can be blended with taste.

As for the girls on display, I know nothing about women's fashions. But you didn't have to know anything to tell quite clearly that there are no women in the world as incredibly beautiful as Swedish women. A brief tour of fashions around the globe revealed as stunning a group of gorgeous Swedes as you are likely to see until the next time you walk down any street in Stockholm.

The hosts of "Pizzazz," Carl Reiner and Michele Lee, were excellent. It is nothing new that Mr. Reiner is simply one of the most civilized and outrageously funny humorists in existence. And Miss Lee, a relative newcomer, held her own quite well, singing, participating in comedy bits and—above all—coming across with poise and warmth and good nature as a hostess.

Others On Hand Others on hand were the Cowells Family singing group, who were delightful; the Harper's Bizarre vocal quartet, which sounds pretty much like a lot of other pop groups to me; and Pat Paulsen, who had a disappointing monologue during which he was surrounded by some giggling, embarrassing girls.

The hour, overall, was pretty skin-deep in terms of a real look at fashions. But there were some pleasant shots of clothes and foreign locales, however brief. And there was one very good sketch, also brief, in which way, there was an animated sequence about dresses of the is unnerved when his wife future, one of which could be wears a see-through dress for inflated into a mattress—"for whatever," as Reiner noted.

One of the least-used phrases in the language these days is "thank you."

The automatic milk bottle filler, patented in 1886, was never designed to keep up with a 16-year-old boy's thirst.

At one time, a kid cut the fingertips from one of mom's old gloves and wore it to shoot marbles — today, mom buys a cut-off glove at fancy prices, and uses it to shoot golf.

Sees Standstill in Marbletown

By SHANE CROSBY

STONE RIDGE

As the Town Board of Marbletown considered the possibility of appointing additional members to the town's Zoning Commission and Planning Board in a special meeting Wednesday night, one member's resignation was submitted and another is expected shortly. Four additional members were proposed and the question was tabled for further study.

Fred W. Meyer, the newest member of the board that has been developing a Zoning Ordinance for the town, resigned, saying he was "wasting his time and energy" on development of the ordinance. He indicated that a split in the feeling of town residents over the measure had reached a "standstill."

Supervisor Roy Webber asked for approval of the resignation and commented that a second member may quit in the near future. Webber said a feeling of being "frustrated and annoyed" had been reasons for most of the resignations seen since the board was formed in 1962. At least 20 persons have served on the seven-seat board since then, he said.

More than 50 persons crowded the town offices as the board discussed the problem of not only filling Meyer's position, but the added problem of filling seats on the Planning Board's fellow body, the Zoning Commission. Any number of persons may serve on the commission, but as discussion ended with a tabled measure, Robert Diamond and Webber came to an agreement of sorts to seek an 11-member commission.

Seven of the 11 would be the present members of the Planning Board, after the Meyer vacancy is filled, and the remaining four would be appointed from residents.

The problem was first brought to the board in a letter from Town Attorney John Wilkie earlier this month as a "house-keeping" measure to insure the legality of the Planning Board which by law, must revert to a Zoning Commission before it presents a Zoning Ordinance to the public and town board.

Wilkie advised the board to make the seven persons members of both bodies. A "two hat" body was the original plan in 1962, but minutes of subsequent meetings referred only to a disagreement and lack of public support.

During the discussion Webber commented that the Town Board would be willing to meet with the Marbletown Businessmen's Association and allow that group to propose one or two persons for the commission.

Webber gave a general statement on the zoning difficulties of Marbletown saying he believed the past and present board members have been "faithful to the principle" zoning and wanted to see considerations being given on both sides of the issue.

The board gave Diamond permission to question practices in other towns and in Orange and Dutchess Counties for an idea of their use of the two body issue, whether they use the same members or have separate persons to reach body.

Key Saugerties Move On Beautification

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

The Saugerties Village "do-it-yourself" urban renewal and hometown beautification program moved into high gear this week on decisive action taken by the Village Board.

It was reported that warrants were issued for the arrest of two village property owners for violation of the penal code in which they allegedly own unsafe buildings and have failed to make the necessary repairs or ordered demolition.

The warrants were issued to Angelo Mazzei of Glasco, who reportedly has two buildings declared unsafe on Partition Street, north of the Martin Cantine Company, and Anthony Carnesi of Brooklyn, for his two buildings at the corner of East Bridge and Ann Streets.

In other action, Village Clerk James Gage has been directed by the Village Board to send notices to eight village property owners notifying them that their buildings are deteriorating.

The village Public Works Department and private contractors have been going full blast in leveling derelict buildings in the village. The McKenney building at Partition and Montross Streets has been leveled with permission of the owner, Gary Bruce McKenney, who asks that the site be used as a park area or for recreational purposes in memory of his father, Thomas F. McKenney.

The buildings of the former Broedel Estate at Montgomery and Partition Streets and the former Kriesse Estate at Clermont and Partition Streets have also been leveled since the properties were turned over to the village by the county. The county had a tax lien on the properties. When the demolition is completed, the land will revert back to the county.

Properties owned by Charles LoBianco were also leveled on Partition Street with the consent of the owner. One is the former Wolven residence which was the site of a recent fire at Post and Partition Streets. Another LoBianco property is a house situated across from the burned out structure, which also has been leveled.

A private contractor demolished the old Halpert building near the corner of Main and Partition Streets, next to Blue Ribbon Cleaners. Currently being demolished is the wooden structure that formerly housed Delson's shoe store on Partition Street.

Much of the credit for the beautification program must go to Mayor Cornelius M. Cox and his Village Party administration, who have been pushing completion of the project.

Much of the inspection work is accomplished by the Saugerties Fire Department.
